Police Drag Out Struggling Chau

. . . S. Vietnamese Deputy Seized In Political Sanctuary

©The New York Times

Saigon — National policemen seized Tran Ngoc Chau, a South Vietnamese deputy, in his sanctuary in the national assembly Thursday afternoon and dragged him, struggling, out of the rear gate to begin serving a 20-year prison sentence for alleged pro-Communist activities.

The anticipated police raid on the building, watched by hundreds of spectators, ended a four-day sit-in in the national assembly by the defiant deputy, who charged President Nguyen Van Thieu with acting unconstitutionally in ordering his prosecution.

The arrest was carried out despite the lodging of a court appeal by Chau, which a government spokesman has conceded should entitle him to freedom until the appeal was decided.

Newsmen Dragged Out

Minutes before Chau was seized in a small rear office, about 50 newsmen present to record the arrest were pushed and dragged out of the room by the police.

According to eyewitnesses, Chau was knocked to the floor, grabbed by four or five policemen and hustled down the back steps to a rear court where he was pushed into a waiting jeep and driven away. Almost all newsmen and spectators had been moved by the police to the front entrance of the assembly.

While government spokesmen and supporters and American officials minimized or tried to ignore the affair, opposition elements expressed outrage and there were signs that some long-range political repercussions could result.

The visit of several leading Buddhist monks to Chau in his refuge Thursday and supporting comments in many South Vietnamese newspapers indicated that the deputy's case held a common interest for various factions of the fragmented opposition.

'Big' Minh Is Silent

On the other hand, such leading opposition figures as Gen. Duong Van "Big" Minh have so far cautiously withheld comment on the case.

In the strongest immediate condemnation of the arrest, 16 members in the Social bloc of the 135-member lower house called the action "an illegal, oppressive measure of the government." Their statement said they would bring Chau's arrest before the International Parliamentarian Association, the International League for the Protection of Human Rights and the International Jurist Association.

Nguyen Huu Chung, an opposition deputy who saw Chau being carried off, said, "They brought him out like a pig being taken to the market. President Thieu has just made a giant stride toward total collapse of the regime."

The Chau case goes back to last April when the deputy's brother, Tran Ngoc Hien, a North Vietnamese intelligence captain, was arrested in the south by the South Vietnamese.

They Met 8 Times

He and Chau, it turned out, had met eight times since 1965, Hien trying to obtain intelligence information and Chau, according to his own account, trying to persuade his brother to defect and making peace feelers for a settlement of the war.

Chau said American Central Intelligence Agency agents and some other American officials here knew about the meetings and encouraged them.

He says he did not inform the South Vietnamese government because the political instability made it too dangerous. The American Embassy has declined all comment.

CURFEW ORDERED . . .

Police Seek Roving Kids

Santa Barbara, Calif. (AP) — Holding plastic shields to ward off rocks and bottles, about 150 policemen swept through the debris-strewn streets of a suburban college community Thursday night where some 500 youths were milling about in defiance of a curfew.

About a half dozen young persons were arrested, including one girl. A sheriff's spokesman said a boy was hit by a squad car and taken to a hospital with undetermined injuries. Despite a 6 p.m. to 6 a.m. curfew, the youngsters lit bonfires in trash bins and pelted police cars and officers with rocks and bottles.

It was the third straight night of disorders. Rioting early Thursday left a bank burned to the ground, other fire damage and broken windows.

Late Thursday police patrolled the one-square-mile community of Isla Vista, but retreated to a parking lot at the nearby University of California at Santa Barbara. At 9:30 p.m. they began the sweep, charging down streets in squads of 25 men. Youngsters yelled obscenities, threw objects and scattered.

Earlier Gov. Ronald Reagan had declared a state of extreme emergency in the area. The county supervisors had ordered the curfew.

Reagan ordered the attorney general to investigate the leadership of the throngs involved in the melees Tuesday and Wednesday nights. He also asked the attorney general to ascertain if William M. Kunstler, as attorney in the Chicago riot conspiracy trial who spoke on campus shortly before Wednesday's demonstration, crossed state lines to incite a riot.

The Wednesday night demonstration by about 1,000 young people was broken up by a massed force of police after the bank branch was gutted, a squad car burned and real estate offices raided.

The bank estimated damage to its branch at $400,000 and said it is offering $25,000 for information leading to conviction of the arsonists.

Students said reasons for the trouble ranged from the Vietnam war to high student rents, from conviction of the Chicago 7 to "rape of the environment," from alleged police harassment to political repression.

Kunstler just a few hours earlier had addressed a student rally. He said he did not consider violence "a good tactic," but advised students to fill the streets so they could be seen. "To the streets," shouted some in the crowd.

He said the trial "was to set an example of what could happen to you if you become involved in the social movement . . . If resistance is not heeded, then it can lead to revolution. I hope the government is listening. Fill the streets so they can see you . . . Power to the people."

Platte Dam Proposal Shelved By Corps

. . . DISTRICT ENGINEER WON'T RECOMMEND PLAN

By GLENN KREUSCHER
Farm Editor

The district engineer of the U.S. Corps of Engineers at Omaha said Thursday the proposal to construct a Platte River dam near Ashland has been "put on the shelf."

"I will not recommend the Platte River dam now or in the future," said Col. B. P. Pendergrass, speaking at the Nebraska Watershed Workshop.

He said the proposal had been shelved "with justification," but without recommendation because there was not sufficient support for funding a project of this magnitude.

Abundantly Clear

"If the people of Nebraska ever see a clear need for the dam, they will have to make it abundantly clear they want it. That support has not manifested itself," said Col. Pendergrass.

He said the alternative proposal of flood plain zoning is highly desirable in that it meets every objection voiced at the public hearings on the dam proposal.

He said the flood plain zoning should be zoned against urban sprawl, but added the plan would allow continued farming, livestock feeding and mining of gravel. The natural buffer resulting from the flood plain zoning could provide an attractive buffer between Omaha and Lincoln, he said.

'Less Than Full'

Col. Pendergrass said the alternative plan would offer "less than full control to the water yield of the Platte River," but he said the Corps has located good sites for storage on the Elkhorn River and would look again at the Loup River in an effort to justify storage sites.

He said the three parts of the Corps study that were not controversial would be recommended. These included development of structures on Skull Creek, a bank stabilization program and the raising of the levy between Valley and Fremont.

Col. Pendergrass said "there is no question but that a lot of people opposed the Platte River dam."

Study Urged

Warren Fairchild, executive secretary of the Nebraska Soil and Water Conservation Commission, said that in light of the latest developments announced by the Corps of Engineers he would recommend that Nebraska press for a broad and complete study of the Platte River and its tributaries.

"I now hope the people of Nebraska can jell themselves and get firmly behind and fund a Type II study of the Platte that includes 60% of the area of the state," said Fairchild.

He said the study he suggested would allow broad-based thinking to cover all aspects of a large and small reservoirs, flood plain zoning, irrigation and other aspects of water development and conservation.

Proposal 'Dangerous'

Ralph Wilson, president of the Elkhorn-Platte Valley Preservation Association, said Col. Pendergrass' proposal to start a flood plain management program could be "a very treacherous and dangerous thing."

He said that keeping out the developers of the area and restricting land uses would lower the value of the land.

It would be "eminent domain in another form," he suggested.

FEDERAL TEA TASTERS DO THEIR BIT

A Food and Drug Administration tea examiner, lower right, and tea industry experts are shown tasting tea at the FDA's offices in Brooklyn. President Nixon wants to eliminate the little-known board of federal tea tasters and several other federal government activities to save $2 billion a year. Treasurer Post Going To Demo?

FRANK GOLDEN

In Line For Post?

According to rumors, the longtime precedent of elevating the chief deputy upon the death of a county official will be broken next week with the anticipated appointment of Frank Golden, a Democrat, as county treasurer to fill the unexpired term of Carl E. Berg, who died Feb. 2.

John Mozdzen, chief deputy for several years under Mr. Berg, filed for the Republican nomination to the post last December when Mr. Berg, a Republican, announced he would not seek another term.

Golden if appointed, is expected to file as a candidate for the post before the March 13 deadline.

Demos Disappointed

Sources anticipate the move by the Democratically controlled Lancaster County Board since a statement earlier this month indicated that Democrats were disappointed in the board's appointment of Republicans to fill the vacancies left by the deaths of three other county officials.

In each case, the chief deputy, who was a Republican, was appointed to the post, which had been held by a Republican.

As far back as any county employe can remember, the chief deputy has been appointed to fill the vacancy created by the death of the office holder.

County Engineer

The present board appointed the late Hugh Dillon to fill the county engineer's post after the death of Arthur Weaver, and the death of Mr. Dillon resulted in the appointment of then chief deputy, Walter Hoppe.

The board also appointed Otis Nelson, former chief deputy of the clerk of the district court, when Wilford Sanders died.

Golden, who in 1963 was appointed deputy county clerk under Carl Hartman — the only other Democratic county officeholder — is a former Havelock barber shop operator, former U.S. marshal for Nebraska and headed the state cigarette tax division during the administration of the late Gov. Ralph G. Brooks.

The 63-year-old deputy clerk is a former chairman of the Lancaster County Democrats and was one of five named for consideration for the postmaster position before the naming of Postmaster Kenneth Lewis.

Sexual Psychopath Law Declared Unconstitutional

Lancaster District Judge Elmer Scheele Thursday declared unconstitutional LB1263 passed by the 1969 Legislature which purportedly amended Nebraska's Sexual Psychopath Act.

In denying writs of habeas corpus for three inmates of the Lincoln State Hospital seeking release under provisions of the new law, Judge Scheele ruled that LB1263 is unconstitutional in that it purports to amend a section of the Sexual Psychopath Act but that that section is not mentioned in the title.

He said the new law contains no saving clause making the act severable and that "even were there a severable clause that the purported amendment was a major inducement to passage of the legislation."

For these reasons, Judge Scheele said, the "whole act is found to be void and the amendment ineffective."

(A saving clause is frequently added to a bill so that if one part of the act is found to be unconstitutional, the remaining portions of the act may stand.)

The three inmates, Robert Silknelter, Richard G. Prince and Karl Gellinger, in suits against Dr. Edwin A. Coats, superintendent of the Lincoln State Hospital, had sought release under provisions of the bill which provides for re-evaluation of their individual cases.

They had contended that they had requested a psychiatric evaluation but that Dr. Coats had "failed, neglected and refused" to provide for such evaluation within a "reasonable time."

The State of Nebraska contended that the three inmates were not entitled to writs of habeas corpus under terms of the law on grounds that the law was unconstitutional.

Bank Follows Lead, Slices Interest To 8%

Bakersfield, Calif. (AP) — Community National Bank, which has assets of $45 million, announced Thursday night it was reducing its prime interest rate from 8½ to 8% immediately.

On Wednesday the Lincoln National Bank in Philadelphia, which also has assets of about $45 million, lowered its prime rate — the first bank in the nation to do so. The action was followed by a sharp upturn in the stock market.

The prime rate — that rate which banks give to their best loan customers — was increased from 8 to 8½% last June 9.

Committee OKs Nixon's Expensive Welfare Plan

Washington (AP) — President Nixon's family assistance plan — covering the "working poor" as well as households without a breadwinner — cleared its first big congressional hurdle Thursday.

The usually conservative House Ways and Means Committee approved the controversial, and expensive, proposal. The decision is subject to review next week, but there is no likelihood it will be reversed.

The decision points to House passage of Nixon's whole welfare revision package, probably about March 18.

While some Democrats support the principles of the bill, others see the possibility of embarrassing a Republican administration and GOP members with a showdown on the budget-threatening departure from earlier Republican positions on the issue of guaranteeing a subsistence income for all.

The measure would greatly increase the federal share of welfare costs, relieving the states. Exact figures have not yet been computed, but estimates range upward from the $4.4 billion federal cost originally estimated by the administration for a full year's operation.

The bill would provide a federally financed floor of income — $1,600 a year for a family of four. Food stamp supplements would bring the effective income to about $2,400.

The states could provide additional support, as some now do, with the government providing 30% of the extra, up to the poverty level, which would be recomputed every two years.

Families would be eligible for aid, whether or not they include a breadwinner, if their income fell below the prescribed level and their liquid assets were under $1,500.

But able-bodied adults, except mothers of preschool children, would be required to register for job training or job assignment. The penalty would be loss of their allotment, but not of the children's.

And incentives for the mothers even of small children to work would be provided by a day-care system fully financed by the federal government.

The present detailed categories of welfare eligibility would be abolished and replaced by two — families needing assistance and adults incapacitated by age, blindness or other disability.

Chairman Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark., told newsmen he will vote formally to send the bill to the House for action, but will reserve the right to oppose it there.

"I haven't made up my mind," he said.

Timber-Growing Bill Is Sidelined

Washingtin (AP) — The House refused by a 228-150 vote Thursday to consider a timber-growing bill strongly opposed by conservation groups.

The practical effect is to kill the legislation at this time.

Proponents of the measure ran into opposition from two sources — conservationists and those who wanted to wait for a report from the Public Land Review Commission.

The bill was designed to promote both the growth and cutting of trees on government-owned forest lands.

But conservationists attacked it as a raid on the forests.

Oil Rigs Boom To Fish

George Wallace In Race

Montgomery, Ala. (AP) — George C. Wallace announced Thursday he will seek the Alabama governor's office again, saying his candidacy would be "a thorn in the side of the Nixon administration."

He predicted at a news conference that President Nixon "is going to make some concessions on school integration he wouldn't make if I weren't running, and he'll make even more after I'm elected."

To be elected, Wallace must defeat at least four other candidates in the May 5 Democratic primary and any candidate who might run in the general election. But the race shapes up as a two-man battle between the 50-year-old Wallace and the current governor, Albert Brewer.

Tea Tasters Board Elimination Urged

. . . IN ECONOMIZING PACKAGE

Washington (AP) — President Nixon sent Congress Thursday a controversial package plan to chop federal spending by more than $2 billion a year through eliminating or revamping 57 government programs.

Among long-established projects that would be affected is federal aid to school districts handling children of government personnel.

Other proposals include elimination of school milk subsidies, an end to hospital construction grants, scrapping of th U.S. savings stamp program and eliminating a 73-year-old board of federal tea tasters — an activity costing $127,000 a year.

The tea tasters systematically sample the 138 million pounds of tea imported each year.

While acknowledging in a special message that many of the proposals will be resisted, Nixon told Congress:

"This is no time for business as usual, spending as usual, politics as usual. This is the time for cutting out waste and cutting down costs with new vigor and new determination."

To help overcome resistance, he suggested that Congress assign his entire package to a single committee for consideration rather than parcelling out the individual items to committees that normally would handle them.

One item certain to stir controversy would reform federal assistance to schools in federally impacted areas.

Nixon plans to save $392 million a year by reducing such aid and shifting much of it from relatively wealthy communities to poorer school districts.

School milk subsidies costing $84 million a year would be scrapped and the money "reallocated to more effective nutritional programs to benefit children of poor families."

Complaining that long-term care in nursing homes and mental hospitals has been "an unexpected cause of great expense" under the medicaid program, the President proposed to reduce federal matching funds for such care by $235 million a year.

He called for outright termination of direct federal hospital construction grants "in favor of a new program which provides federal mortgage guarantees," a change that he estimated would save $65 million a year.

Nixon came out also in favor of reducing some veterans benefits including elimination of payments to cured tuberculosis victims, proposed that policy loans to holders of GI life insurance be raised to commercial levels.

And he said he wants federal crop insurance placed on a completely self-supporting basis over a period of time.

Among his other economy proposals: sale of the Alaska Railroad, termination of federal maintenance of recreational boat harbors, ending of federal support of schools of veterinary medicine and scrapping health professions scholarships and loans to students of families having incomes of more than $10,000 a year.

147 Go Skinny-Dipping

Chicago (UPI) — "I just walked over to see what was coming off," said James W. Vice, assistant dean of students at the University of Chicago.

What the dean found was 147 male and female students frolicking nude in a university swimming pool.

"It was all very good natured," he said.

The mass skinny-dip was sponsored by the Students for Violent Non-Action (SVNA), a campus group dedicated to the absurd.

Ostensibly, the evening swim was billed as a "happy birthday Frank" party in honor of Frank Malbranche, who is said to be chief of the SVNA. Everyone was invited to "wear your birthday suit."

Malbranche, however, is mythical and is a play on the name of Nicolas de Malebranche, 17th and 18th century French philosopher. Philosophical games have been among the more popular sports at Chicago ever since the school abandoned Big Ten football.

The SVNA obtained a permit from the school for use of the pool.

The students gamboled about in the water for about two hours and then retired to the showers where they lathered up together before returning home.

Dean Vice was asked if there was any university regulation against such an event. He replied: "Well, I don't really think anyone ever thought to write a rule against this sort of thing."

Top Viet Cong Delegate Joins Boycott

©The New York Times

Paris — The Viet Cong delegation to the Paris peace talks indicated Thursday that its chief representative, Mrs. Nguyen Thi Binh, had decided to join the chief North Vietnamese delegate in boycotting the weekly sessions.

The talks thus appeared to drop another notch in status, a process that began in December with the resignation of Henry Cabot Lodge as chief American negotiator.

He was not replaced and Xuan Thuy, head of Hanoi's delegation, has regularly sent a deputy as a protest against what is called the U.S. "downgrading" of the talks.

Philip C. Habib, the acting American delegation chief, continued, however, to try to demonstrate that the United States was anxious to negotiate an end to the war. As he did last week, he dispensed with a formal opening statement Thursday and attempted to engage the Communists in a give-and-take discussion of war prisoners.

The Communists refused to be drawn into such a discussion and answered with charges that the United States was carrying out chemical warfare in South Vietnam and was intervening in Laos.

Such issues were termed "extraneous" by Stephen Ledogar, the American press spokesman. The war prisoner issue, he said, was a fundamental one.

O'Brien Turns Down Return To Demo Helm

Washington (AP) — Lawrence F. O'Brien rejected Thursday a call to return to the chairmanship of the Democratic National Committee, and Hubert H. Humphrey began a search for a new consensus candidate.

He doesn't have much time; the Democratic National Committee meets March 5 to select a successor to Sen. Fred R. Harris of Oklahoma.

O'Brien considered the call for nearly two weeks, and gave his answer to Humphrey Wednesday night.

"There are some within the party structure and some among those with whom the party traditionally has had close relationships who do not share the view that I should return as chairman," he said in a statement issued Thursday through his New York public relations office.

"Therefore, it is clear to me that the consensus I deem vital for the next chairman would not be forthcoming, and I will not allow my name to be presented for consideration."

O'Brien had managed, in succession, the White House campaigns of the late John F. Kennedy, of former President Lyndon B. Johnson and of Humphrey.

O'Brien did not explain his statement that some Democrats do not want him.

However, some Democratic governors had expressed reservations about his return.

Gov. John N. Dempsey of Connecticut, chairman of the Democratic governors, said they felt they had not been adequately consulted about the chairmanship.

5 Marines Accused Of Killing 16 In Vietnam

©The New York Times

Saigon — Five U.S. Marines have been arrested and charged with the murder Feb. 19 of 11 South Vietnamese women and five children whose bodies were discovered by villagers the next day, the Marine command announced Thursday.

The Marines were described as members of a five-man patrol of the 7th Marine Regiment operating in a contested area around Refugee Hamlet 4 of Son Thang village, 27 miles south of Da Nang.

The alleged massacre came to light the morning of Feb. 20 when villagers of Son Thang Hamlet 4 discovered the 16 bodies. Whether the corpses were in a grave or in the open was not disclosed. They reported their discovery to another passing Marine patrol, the command said.

A preliminary investigation was launched the next day.

Makes Predictions

Warren Fairchild, executive secretary of the Nebraska Soil and Water Conservation Commission, made 11 predictions of things he believes will occur as part of the small watershed program in the 70's in Nebraska and throughout the nation.

This list included:

1. The P.L. 566 Watershed Program will become more multipurpose in nature.

2. Work plans will be an integral component of a comprehensive basin program of development.

3. Recreation will be authorized as a project benefit as a justification for projects.

4. Additional significance will be placed upon sediment control with special attention to roadside erosion control.

5. Water quality problems of eutrophication and low flow augmentation will be recognized.

6. Potential water supply for irrigation will become more apparent.

7. A flood plain management and regulatory program will be required as an integral component of a small watershed program if it is to receive congressional authorization.

8. A feasible and economical program of streambank erosion control will evolve.

9. Land treatment practices will be modified to be compatabile with modern farming methods and machinery.

10. Structures will continue to increase in size, however, not as great an increase as in the past 10 years.

11. Snagging and clearing in water courses in Nebraska will increase in importance.

Norman A. Berg, associate administrator Soil Conservation Service, Washington, D.C., addressed the luncheon program.

Berg said he expects the decade ahead to see a continuation of the trend toward multipurpose projects with further legislative changes particularly for water quality control, more resource planning and a greater level of participation by citizens, local groups and government agencies.

Creation Of Unit To Study Dividing California Urged

Sacramento, Calif. (AP) — An assemblyman called Thursday for creation of a commission to consider dividing California into two states.

The bill by Assemblyman Willie Brown Jr., D-San Francisco, would create a nine-member commission called "The Commission on the Division of the State."

It may turn out to be legally impossible to have a Northern California and Southern California, said Brown. "The point is, we don't really know and it seems to me we ought to find out."

The division has been proposed several times since legislative reapportionment in 1965 gave Southern California a majority of seats in both Senate and Assembly.

Brown listed some of the possible political gains: two additional U.S. senators, at least one more congressman and possibly more total federal aid.

Free Postage Out For DeCamp In His Campaign

The Army Postal Service has ruled that a Nebraska soldier running for the Legislature from his duty station in Vietnam will have to pay for the postage used on his campaign literature in the future.

Army officials reportedly obtained the ruling after Capt. John DeCamp, Neligh, mailed 10,000 campaign lettters free of charge.

Military personnel overseas are allowed to send personal mail without postage.

DeCamp has filed for election to the seat now held by state Sen. William Wylie of Elgin. DeCamp is stationed in the Mekong Delta of South Vietnam and will not be able to return to Nebraska until after the election.

Ban On Unsought Credit Cards Is Okayed By Panel

Washington (AP) — The Senate Banking Commettee approved Thursday 9-6 a bill to ban distribution of unsolicited credit cards.

Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., a sponsor of the measure, said millions of such cards are sent out each yeaar.

The measure also would limit to $50 the liability of any card holder for misuse of his card by another person.

NU Med Center Library Receives Gift Of $8,500

Omaha — The University of Nebraska Medical Center Library has received an endowment gift of $8,500 for the purchase of historical books in the field of anatomy.

Dr. Edward A. Holyoke, chairman of the Department of Anatomy, said the money is the residual of the C.W.M. Poynter Foundation.

The foundation will cease to function since the money for the library represents the last of its funds, Dr. Holyoke said.

He explained that the foundation was organized in 1945 to honor Dr. Poynter, who was retiring after 39 years of service to the University, 16 as dean of the College of Medicine and 23 as the first fulltime chairman and professor of the Department of Anatomy. He died in 1950.

Through the years, Dr. Holyoke said, the funds were utilized to provide student fellowships and to finance the C.W.M. Poynter lecture series.

Kirby Resigns Post With Rail Commission

Papillion (AP) — Nebraska State Railway Commission examiner Dale T. Kirby has resigned.

A former city attorney for Papillion, Kirby resigned Wednesday, the same day he was charged in Sarpy County Court with two counts of embezzling funds allegedly given to him to pay off mortgages.

He had been employed by the commission for six days, said Commissioner Fred N. Peterson, who announced the resignation.

Peterson said the charges came "as a complete surprise" to the commission and added that Kirby had been "highly recommended" by officials at Papillion.

The charges were based on complaints by Mrs. Martha Badura of Ashton, who said Kirby appropriated for his own use checks from her in the amounts of $6,000 and $2,000.

Kearney police and Buffalo County officials said a total of 17 persons had been arrested in raids in Kearney and the immediate vicinity from Jan. 19 through Feb. 21.

Patrol Criticized For IBP Action

Dakota City, Neb. (UPI) — Don Fitch, deputy Dakota County attorney, and Dakota County Sheriff Allen Bligh Thursday criticized the Nebraska State Patrol for its approach to law enforcement during recent violence at the Iowa Beef Processors plant here.

Referring to the violence which errupted shortly before 9 a.m. Monday and resulted in rock throwing incidents during which four shots were fired, Fitch said "if the patrol had really been there when this started, it might not have got as far as it did. Instead, they did nothing until I requested it."

Fitch said "they can see violations of the law just as well as I can. They just don't want to get mixed up in this thing."

He said "we're just not getting backed up. That's what happened in Dennison, and now they're closed down."

Fitch said "the patrol should have been there before I was. They were sitting only a fourth of a mile away watching the whole thing."

Called Tiemann

Fitch said he called Governor Tiemann "because apparently there is some conflict between the State Patrol objectives in this situation and the objectives of local law enforcement officials."

Fitch said the governor told him he would talk to Captain Whitney of the State Patrol and then call Fitch back. But Fitch said he hasn't heard a thing and doesn't expect to.

Dakota County Sheriff Allen Bligh said "never before in history have more law enforcement officers done less than they did out there." He said "we're going to have law and order here one way or another."

History Teachers Will Hear Hruska

'Y' Organizer Trying To Work Out Of Job

Rudolf Wiens has been trying since 1952 to work himself out of a job and maybe, by 1973, he'll have done just that.

Wiens, a world service fraternal secretary for the International YMCA, has been organizing the "Y" movement in Brazil since 1952 and is now the only American administrator remaining in that country.

Addressing a group of Lincoln area and national YMCA leaders Thursday night, Wiens said he hopes that the program in Brazil will be under complete Brazilian control by 1973.

Wiens has been in overseas YMCA service for more than 27 years and has been "home" to the United States only six times.

Since 1958, when he became general secretary of the Federation of Brazilian YMCAs, he has helped to start five new YMs in Brazil.

He said the YMCA in Belo Horizonte, a city of more than one million, has a family membership totaling more than 6,000 and two new branches are being planned.

"Our attitudes and American way of thinking are helping Brazil to develop and realize its potentials," he said. "The strength of the YMCA is in leadership and trying to get men together to work for the common good."

Feelings of resentment from the government and the Catholic Church have eased in recent years and the YMCA is being accepted throughout the country, he said.

"The role of the United States in world affairs is a difficult one; we've been given so much in every way, that we are responsible for giving more and more in the future."

Money raised by local YMCAs is used mainly for salary of staff members and building programs in International Programs, he said and Africa will be the next target area for YMCA development.

Motorist Suffers Nightmare Ride

London (UPI)—Motorist John Zammit set helplessly behind the wheel of his car as it was dragged three miles along a highway jammed under the rear of a tractor-trailer truck.

Police said the nightmare ride ended when another motorist managed to flag down the truck.

Zammit was unhurt but the two vehicles had to be cut apart.

Crash Cuts Phone Lines For 6 Hours

Dalton (AP) — A one-car accident a half mile north of Dalton on U.S. Highway 385 about 11 p.m. Wednesday interrupted telephone service between Sidney and the Alliance, Hemingford, Hyannis and Bingham areas for nearly six hours during the night.

A telephone company spokesman in Omaha said the first of the circuits involved was put back in service about midnight and by 5:30 a.m. all service had been restored.

Left Curve

Trooper Ronald Gusman of the Nebraska State Patrol said a 1968 model car driven by Andrew Jensen, 35, of Bridgeport left the highway on a curve and smashed into the telephone pole, causing the cable to part. Gusman said Jensen was not seriously injured, but there was more than $900 damage to his car.

The telephone company said besides the commercial circuit to the four towns, the cable carried some private lines.

IN PERSPECTIVE

By WILLIAM O. DOBLER

It is an intriguing idea presented to the Democratic party by Omaha Attorney Richard Fellman for reorganization of the party structure. Fellman's plan calls for scrapping of all existing party machinery and substitution of an elected statewide governing body.

The plan has a long way to go, through the party itself and then through the Legislature for statutory authority. But if it is a good plan, there is no reason that those steps cannot be taken without excessive difficulty.

The idea behind Fellman's plan is to bring the party closer to the people and that is an objective with which none can argue. But would it do that? That is the big question and it is not an easy one to answer.

On paper, the plan would seem to do that. Presently, the party is chiefly run by its Central Committee, a small group selected at the annual party convention. At the convention are delegates who have been sent there from county conventions.

At the county conventions are delegates who have been elected from the various precincts within their county. Thus, the ruling and operating arm of the party today is at least twice removed from the electorate, although the whole process does start with election by the people.

Thus, those who really run the party may have been elected at some time, but not for the purpose they ultimately perform. The Fellman plan would put the party in the hands of people elected specifically for the purpose of running the party.

Offhand, that looks like a good idea but it might or might not work so well. One key consideration is whether the direct election process is good or bad and it is not really heresy to suggest that it is not always the best thing.

One problem with direct election is the cost of campaigning. If those aspiring to run for the Democratic Forum under the Fellman plan had to spend a lot of money to get elected, the plan loses some of its attractiveness.

If big money interests were able to control the election of forum members, control of the party would still, from a practical point of view, not be in the hands of the people. This doesn't happen in theory, we know, but it certainly happens in practice.

This is what Jack Langford of Kearney was complaining about. He considered but has now apparently abandoned plans to run for the Republican nomination for governor.

One thing that bugged Langford was a $100-a-plate dinner for Gov. Norbert Tiemann, a dinner which received extensive backing from the GOP party. Langford felt that the situation gave Tiemann an unfair primary advantage and he was right.

The point is that the average guy has a tough time when it comes to winning elections. Most of the time, he simply has to hope for understanding and integrity on the part of someone elected from the ranks of more prestige and money.

Election to a county convention, as is now done, is a different matter. It is on a precinct level and such elections are too small and there are too many of them for effective control to be exercised by anyone.

Thus, almost anyone who wants has a good chance of being elected at the precinct level. If there is a contest, anyone can campaign in a precinct without spending any money, at all.

Of course, another fact enters into this. Often, such precinct elections go begging, with no one filing or only one person's name on the ballot. Fellman's plan would eliminate what is now a weak elective program and substitute a strong one for it.

With his plan, the county structure would be developed backwards from the state forum level. This could mean less grass roots participation than is now the case. The Fellman plan deserves careful study and adds some spice to party affairs.

Car-Makers Hesitant On Pollution Device

WASHINGTON — If anyone outside California walked into a Ford or Chrysler showroom and ordered a new car with the advanced air pollution equipment now required by California law, he would be told he couldn't have it.

Although the devices are the best available, this column has learned that Ford and Chrysler are actively discouraging their sale outside California.

The price manuals issued by both companies to their dealers across the country state unequivocally that the special anti-pollution equipment is available on California cars only.

Furthermore, the Chrysler computer system is programmed to reject automatically an order for the equipment should one come in from one of the other 49 states.

Spokesman for both Ford and Chrysler, nevertheless, acknowledged to this column that there was no reason why a determined buyer, willing to wait a little longer for his new car, could not obtain the special device.

Thus both companies admit they have issued false information to their dealers, which is bound to discourage the purchase of pollution control equipment. This is an ironic admission in view of the pious statements both companies have made about their desire to clean up the air.

The equipment in question is a system which curbs pollution from the evaporation of gasoline in fuel lines, tanks or carburetors. It costs about $40.

Asked why the company price manual falsely stated that the system was not available outside California, a Chrysler official could give no immediate explanation.

A Ford spokesman said the company "thought it was advisable to test this system for a year to perfect the design and service techniques" before making the equipment available nationally.

The U.S. Army is killing off an educational program to the sound of music. It has cancelled all but one course for GIs taking off-campus college training at the Pentagon and Fort Myer, Va.

Even the single course had been wiped out until this column revealed that the Army had killed the education program to save $140,000 but, apparently, had plenty of money to provide the generals with GI servants. Then the one course was hastily written back into the budget as a face-saver.

There is also plenty of money for circuses. The self-glorifying Army musical extravaganza "Prelude to Taps" is being restored at a cost of $40,000 to the taxpayer. And the 120-man Army band has been sent on an $18,000 junket to Moorhead, Minn., for a band clinic.

Ashland Dam Apparently Tabled As Engineers Ready Alternative

For all practical purposes, the proposed Lower Platte River dam has had it. The big dam and reservoir, proposed for construction near Ashland, was the key to a $500 million area development plan for eastern Nebraska which would have reaped untold benefits in the future. From the beginning, even to have the slightest chance for realization, the project needed the unqualified support of the Nebraska congressional delegation, its sponsors and its parent, the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers.

The slim amount of support the project received from Nebraska's state and national leaders was wavering at best and it ranged to downright opposition on the part of one member of the congressional delegation — Rep. Glenn Cunningham of Omaha. That prospects for the dam were almost dead because of lack of official support was not surprising.

Neither is it surprising that the Platte dam proposal has been effectively killed by the position now being taken by the Corps' Omaha district, which will offer its report to the Missouri River Division in the spring.

Basically, the Omaha district is saying that the huge dam and reservoir are fully justified economically because of its water management and recreational assets and the fact that the Corps believes it would serve to enhance the quality of life in the eastern part of the state.

However, the Omaha office is now saying that because the dam and reservoir would be expensive in both human and economic terms, because there are competing demands for money in Congress and because the project has become a divisive issue locally, a less controversial alternative should be developed.

Conflicting interpretations of what District Engineer Col. B. P. Pendergrass said in a letter to Nebraska representatives in Congress lead to a conclusion on the one hand that he will not recommend in favor of constructing the dam and on the other a conclusion that only the development of alternatives is in order.

In spite of other comments by Col. Pendergrass which lead inescapably to the conclusion that the dam is doomed, the Omaha office sought to clarify its stance Thursday. "He (Pendergrass) is not recommending against the dam. It's our original proposal and it's a good proposal — but after our hearings . . . it's our opinion that a more viable alternative . . ." should be developed, a Corps spokesman said.

Thus, the Corps is going to present the original proposal, without a positive recommendation, and the alternative and let Congress decide. And thus, at the very most, the Corps is only standing by the dam and reservoir when it should still be giving its unqualified support if it really believes in the feasibility and overall benefits of the project; if it really believes what it has been saying all along.

The alternative being prepared by the Omaha district appears to be a reasonable one. Pendergrass said he will recommend three other features of the Platte River plan that have received no opposition—the Skull Creek dam below it, reconstruction of Union dike to increase flood protection on the Platte flood plain between Fremont and Valley and an experimental bank stabilization research program.

And as "the most viable alternative" to the Lower Platte dam, the Omaha district will recommend immediate implementation of a flood plain management program to be carried out by the state in the Lower Platte and Elkhorn Valleys — this to keep the flood plains from being developed and to utilize existing resources. Water impoundments along Platte tributaries are also in the picture.

Something about the alternative suggests that Nebraskans will still have to worry about the state's water supply and development of the lower Platte in future years.

Although it is probable the money wouldn't have been there this time, the fight would have been worth it. There is a feeling that eastern Nebaska might have been politicked out of something of tremendous value. Lincoln and Omaha interests couldn't carry the battle alone and that is a lesson for the future.

Battle For Florida Everglades A Narrow Victory; Developers Relentless In Pursuit Of New Areas

EVERGLADES NATIONAL PARK — It was a famous victory. And how much authority it took, right up to the White House, to save this unique natural wonder from the developers is a measure of the threat everywhere to all that remains of the American heritage.

The Dade County Port Authority had already put $13,000,000 into the proposed jetport. A training strip had been built. Estimates of the eager developers were for a satellite complex around the port of at least a million inhabitants.

Certainly, it would have meant the end of the park and most of the rare and vanishing bird and marine species sheltering in this last refuge. The sonic boom, the pollutants in the air and water, all the pressures of an enveloping city almost as large as Miami, would have meant doom. So the conservationists in and out of government went into battle.

But, even though ecology and environment are the magic words of the moment, the outcome was so close that it took two cabinet officers and the President to swing the balance.

Man the polluter, the despoiler, man the builder who in his heedless building destroys the environment essential to life, has come close to the edge of the abyss. How close is evident in the struggle to save another piece of the still-unspoiled wonder of water and island reefs so swiftly vanishing.

Congress has authorized a Biscayne monument in southern Biscayne Bay. In this area of 105,000 acres the goal is to preserve waters so clear that the ocean floor is plainly visible, the reefs as yet untouched by the bulldozer and the shoreline where the mangrove growth shelters a complex life essential to the balance between a productive marine growth and briny sterility. Along these reefs are some of the wrecked ships that went down when the bay was a passage for the Spanish treasure galleons and British frigates of the 17th and 18th centuries.

What has happened in northern Biscayne Bay is a dramatic object lesson. The waters off Key Biscayne, the ultra-rich resort where President Nixon has his $250,000 winter retreat, are already polluted. From Miami, Miami Beach, Coral Gables and the developments springing up so fast along the coast a tide of half-treated sewage effluent and even raw sewage pours into the ocean. The drainage canals flowing through Miami have a seven - or eight-foot layer of sewage and sludge. The waters around Key Biscayne were once unpolluted and not so long ago.

Land purchases of $10,000,000 for Biscayne Monument have been made or committed, and the State of Florida has agreed to turn over the right to underwater preserves. But the ceaseless opposition of the builders and the land speculators can yet prevail. The undeveloped shore line of southern Biscayne Bay is the hottest speculative property in the country. European investors are said to be deep in this state, the third fastest growing in the nation, with an annual increase that has been as high as 5.8 per cent.

One development of high-rise condominums on the shore of northern Biscayne Bay would house eventually 400,000. Another company of developers has acquired 3,000 acres for a project almost as big. They would, of course, do away with the natural growth on the shore line and wall it off in concrete.

Another serious source of pollution is the nuclear reactor power plant being built by Florida Power and Light at Turkey Point, the site of a conventional fuel plant. If the company persists in discharging heated water into the bay temperatures raised seven to eight degrees will overwhelm the delicate balance of marine life dependent on the commingling of fresh water and sea water in a kind of seed bed that is the nutrient for both commercial and sport fishing.

Brevity in letters is requested but length in itself will have no bearing on publication. Writers are advised that needless details and repetitious matter will be edited out of letters. Too frequent contributions from one person on the same subject may be rejected. All letters must be accompanied by writer's true name but may be submitted for publication under a pen name or initials. However, letters will be printed under a pen name or initials at the editor's discretion.

Thank You

Lincoln, Neb.

On behalf of the steering committee of the Rural Water District, I want to express to the Star and its farm editor, Mr. Glenn Kreuscher, our thanks for the news stories, editorials, pictures and comments. They were most helpful in helping us to reach our goal a full 30 days in advance of target date. This worthwhile project when finished will be a credit to the rural community which it will serve and a credit to the dedicated young farmers who contributed much of their time and talents on a volunteer basis in pioneering a new era for rural Nebraska.

Vietnam War

Lincoln, Neb.

This concerns the letter from "Fact-Finder" in the Tues., Feb. 24, Star.

There used to be a name for a person who allowed himself to be tricked into working against himself. "Sucker," I think it was. Of course our enemies would like us to continue the war in Vietnam. The United States, according to U.S. government figures, spends more each month in the Vietnam war than the total of all Russian and Chinese expenditures in that war since the whole mess began. And, while we have lost over 40,000 men, how many Chinese and Russian troops does one see in the body counts?

The really awful part is that our enemies can count on people like "Fact-Finder" to shout down any opposition to the war so that the nationally fatal bleeding of the American people can continue.

Progress

Lincoln, Neb.

The 1970 election is shaping up to be quite a decision-maker for the people of Nebraska. It can only be hoped that the majority will fail to follow the howls of the road-blockers and look at the other side of the coin.

Our governor is getting blamed for a higher tax rate when the real culprits have been the Curtises, the Batchelders and their disciples who have been against every type of progress for so many years. All they have been concerned about was, keep the tax rate down. Growth — opportunity — they could care less.

Not too long ago, we heard about the wonderful white spot in the center of America. Did it bring any industry or opportunity to anyone? On the contrary, there began an exodus of people, unfortunately made up mostly of talented and ambitious young people, until while the rest of the nation grew in numbers and wealth, we have been getting smaller in too many ways.

Only recently have we seen roads begin to appear outstate, industry begin to move in, but we are so busy burying our pennies in the backyard that little notice is given to a beginning of progress.

These no-voters have been whining about the national debt, wished on the grandchildren, an often-heard lament of a few years ago. How about the debt we hung on Nebraska grandchildren? Well, those grandkids are now beginning to pay for the roads Granddad refused to start, the better school system that Gramps didn't care for, and so it goes.

We have just begun to drive a few nails in the old neglected barn and now we have candidates who want to pull them out and bury them with their pennies. Yes, I own my home and have paid taxes in Nebraska for over 30 years. I would still rather invest a hundred dollars in the future than to give 50 to sink back in the mud. I only hope there will be enough people in this camp to help us stay in the Union.

W.E.M.

In Poor Company

Lincoln, Neb.

We are all dissenters in one way or another; dissension is not a distinction. But historically speaking, you are in very bad company when you are dissenting against dissent itself.

In reply to the two "dissenting" letters in the February 20 Star, it should be noted that the writers do not oppose my views; rather, they oppose the fact that I hold and express them. You see, the contents of my handout have still not been in question. My political views are not known to the writers of those letters, though I'll be happy to express them if asked. So, though it is not known what I am, it IS known what I am not — I am not in total agreement with the Nixon administration, and it is the disagreement itself that the two writers oppose. What else do they know of me?

It must be very awkward to be found defending in yourself the very intolerance you profess to deplore in others. Again, you are in very poor historical company when you begin dissenting against dissent.

BOB CONSIDINE

Two Telephone Care-Rings Every Day

NEW YORK — Vivacious, popular Marion Parker came down with Hong Kong flu in the fall of 1969. She was in bed in her new York apartment for two weeks.

"I got only one phone call during that time," Mrs. Parker says, "and that was from my son at Colgate. I had picked up lots and lots of friends in my life with I.T. and T., the Garrity public relations firm, being director of the Association of Operating Room Nurses, owning and running a shop in Scottsdale, Arizona, and managing the gift shops on five American Export liners.

"Most of my jobs have been pressure jobs that took me in and out of New York. I was always on the go. None of my friends could ever keep track of just where I was. So I lay there for two miserable weeks, and the phone rang only once."

Out of this experience emerged a remarkable organization named Care-Ring, Inc.

"That flu I had and the lack of attention it got made me realize for the first time in my life that there must be an awful lot of live-aloners in New York who feel as neglected as I did. I did some research and found that in 1968 there were 550,000 persons living alone in this town, and the projection I got was that it would be 800,000 by 1970. On a nationwide scale, 15 per cent of the entire population lives alone. Think of that! That's about 30,000,000 Americans."

Mrs. Parker couldn't worry about 30,000,000. But her own neighborhood, which covers the rich Sutton Place area and the sometimes seamy adjoining First Avenue, was manageable.

"I made a point of going out at night and studying loners: nice old ladies walking their dogs, lonely men and women drinking alone in the First Avenue saloons, drinking enough so that they could forget everything and get some sleep when they went to their separate places," she recalls.

"Why not set up some kind of comforting or protective service for these people?"

Mrs. Parker took her idea to an assortment of friends and they were unanimous in assuring her that it could not be done. Undaunted, she chose 2,000 names out of the Manhattan phone directory, spread over her general vicinity, and sent each a form letter. Would they be interested in subscribing to a service, telephone and personal, that would try to make them feel that they were part of the action, that someone cared?

She received 200 favorable replies. But 21 of these wanted the service to commence immediately.

Mrs. Parker called a registered nurse she knew, and Care-Ring was in business.

"I can't tell you how many clients we have, but we sure give them a variety of services," Mrs. Parker says. "For example, we have a very old lady who wishes to be called twice a day because, as she says, she might die in her apartment and then who would walk her dog?

"If a client leaves a call for nine in the morning and does not answer it, we call again at nine-thirty. If there is still no answer we send somebody with medical training to the apartment house and inform the superintendent. If the superintendant cannot get an answer on the house phone, we suggest that this is a cause for alarm and ask him to use his pass key to see if anything is wrong. Except in the case of suicide or massive coronary, the people we send on such missions can keep a person alive until the client's doctor arrives. We keep files on our clients' medical histories, of medical data.

The files contain more than medical data."

"There are a lot of young career people who work under pressure in this town," says Mrs. Parker. "They haven't any need for a secretary, so, if they're with us, they call in to ask us to remind them of things that may be driven out of their minds by work: oh, 'Don't let me forget Valentine's Day,' or, 'Remind me to have my tennis racquet re-strung before I leave for Florida,' or 'It's snowing too hard; can you get a hairdresser to come to my apartment?' or 'Where's a good Korean restaurant?' Naturally, we don't know all these things offhand, but we look it up and call them back."

Everybody on the list gets called twice a day, just to see how they are feeling—and what's new in the subjects (or gossip) they like.

Mrs. Parker has solved the difficult New York-at-night dilemma by employing Columbia University medical students to take care of the midnight to 8 a.m. emergencies. As for her more elderly clients, who tell her in advance that they plan to be out for the evening, they must call in the moment they are safely home. If they don't — the alarm is out.

"I guess I just have an overdeveloped mother's complex," Mrs. Parker laughs.

Regular Classrooms 'Better' For Meeting Needs Of Individuals

Teaching has developed to a point that individual needs of students can be met in the regular classroom much better than before, Lincoln Supt. John Prasch told a League of Women Voters meeting Thursday.

As a result, it may appear that traditional programs for meeting individual needs in which children were segregated from the regular classroom have been destroyed, Prasch pointed out.

Referring to the rapid learner program that provides challenging instruction to gifted children in six schools, Prasch said that special classes can be created but it is more efficient to have work available for any student to perform at his own rate.

If the district substitutes continuous progress courses, such as the math course now being used, for a program in which a select group of students has been separated with a different teacher, "parents will say the rapid learner program has been destroyed," he said.

Some 50 parents attended the last Board of Education meeting, which was partially devoted to the rapid learner program, and many protesetd what they believed to be elimination of the program.

Prasch told the league members that educators are developing more flexible programs for gifted children that are "much less visible" but which still have the objective of "challenging bright children to their fullest potential."

The superintendent and four other panel members discussed three phases of the district's special education program, including programs for rapid learners, the trainable mentally retarded and the emotionally disturbed.

'Frightful'

Labeling students with certain handicaps is a "frightful responsibility" for the school district, Prasch declared. "I am constantly fearful that we may categorize and label a kid and almost never allow him the opportunity to have another label."

"Research has proven that a child will fill the role described for him," he said.

The director of special education, Dr. Donald Sherrill, emphasized the voluntary nature of programs for retarded and disturbed children and the difficulty parents have agreeing that their child is handicapped in these ways.

Sherrill said that in some cases of emotionally disturbed children the decision to place a child in a special program is made quite late, "but it is a very difficult decision to make on the part of educators and parents alike."

Schools Criticized

Dr. Kenneth Hubble, director of the Child Guidance Center, had critiziced the schools for taking so long in getting help for some children and then referring the parents and child to Child Guidance "under duress."

Hubble also complained about the lack of a defined program for emotionally disturbed secondary students. Lincoln has a program for 21 elementary children at Holmes School.

Employment of more school psychologists to consult with classroom teachers about problem children — not to treat children — might help solve some problems before they become too advanced to deal with, he suggested.

Efforts Expected

Donald Kasparek, director of the General Arnold program for trainable retarded children, indicated that efforts will be made this summer to develop a sequential curriculum.

Curriculum improvements and vocational training for the older retarded children are the greatest needs for the program, Kasparek declared.

Also participating on the panel were Mrs. Robert Broman and Dr. Howard Temporo, professor of educational psychology at the University of Nebraska.

Changes Coming In Appearance Of Traffic Control Devices

Lincolnites can probably expect some major changes within several years in the shape, color, and appearance of some traffic signs and vehicle control devices, City Traffic Engineer Robert Holsinger said Thursday.

Holsinger said the major changes are being proposed for inclusion in the 1971 edition of the national Uniform Manual of Traffic Control Devices. He said that Lincoln "religiously follows the manual" and would make the changes.

Purpose of the manual is to make sure that a warning sign in one city means the same thing in another.

The changes will also apply to state highways and all highways in Nebraska receiving federal aid, according to the city traffic engineer.

Use of Symbolism

Holsinger told a City Engineers Seminar here that in the warning type of traffic sign: "Look for changes from wording to more use of symbolism."

"Initially, word panels will be used below the new symbol sign," he said.

Holsinger explained that a uniform symbol would aid a motorist's interpretation of a sign. He added that a person who cannot read English now has no way of interpreting signs.

One example of a proposed type to symbolization, he said, would be a "new signal head sign having a traffic signal shown on it."

Yield Sign Change

Another major change proposed, he said, would be the conversion from a black on yellow "yield" sign to a white background with red letters and border.

Also, pedestrian crossing signs would be pentagon-shaped rather than diamond-shaped.

A fourth major change would be to use yellow pavement marking to separate lanes of traffic in the opposite directions. White would be used to separate traffic lanes in the same direction.

Basic Change

"Thus in markings, look for a basic change from white to yellow for the skip markings on rural highways," he said.

"There is presently a great deal of confusion created by the use of a white skip line to mark the lanes of a divided roadway and then when the roadway becomes a two-way roadway with a single lane in each direction, the continued use of the white marking has created severe problems of head-on collisions by passing vehicles still thinking they were on a divided roadway."

Holsinger also pointed out at the seminar that the use of uniform traffic control devices can result in a savings to a community not only in the fabrication of the devices but also in legal liability.

Court Awards

He said that there have been some court awards based on inadequate or non-uniform traffic control devices.

"Attorneys are getting smarter and they are beginning to question our methods and our means. They are saying to us, 'Our driver did not understand what you meant by the diamond stop sign, the octagon slow sign, the square School X sign, the four-way yield," he said.

"What it amounts to is that where before you have gotten away with it, in the future, you will have to pay for it," he said.

Opposition Is Down To Integration By Busing In Berkeley, Calif.

Berkeley, Calif. (AP) — Elementary school busing to mix black and white youngsters has been working here for 18 months and leaders of both races say opposition to the plan is declining.

Supt. Richard L. Foster said a survey done before the busing was instituted in September 1968 indicated that 50% of the parents of children involved opposed the plan. Most recent estimates, he said, show 30% are against busing.

Richard Hunter, a Negro and principal of one of the 16 elementary schools in Berkeley, agreed. He said few of the parents who originally opposed busing are willing now to admit they didn't like the idea.

Hills And 'Flats'

Berkeley imposed busing to integrate its predominantly white, affluent schools in the hills with the black schools in the "flats."

The city, home of Black Panther leaders Huey P. Newton and Bobby Seale, has a population of 120,000, 44% of whom are Negro. Total enrollment in the school systems is 15,000.

Foster said he had received few complaints on the race question. "The parents are now more concerned with education," he said.

"It's what's at the end of the bus ride that's important, says Mrs. Thomas E. Farris, a white mother whose 11-year-old son, Edward, rides a bus to attend a school in a predominantly black neighborhood. She said her concern was "teacher competence and classroom work."

"Financially it was less of a disaster than expected," she said.

The officials say busing costs about $200,000 annually, half of which is paid by the state. The annual district school budget is approximately $24 million.

There is still opposition. One group, Berkeley Citizens United, is led by Herbert Blasdale, who removed his two children from the public school system rather than have them bused to schools in black neighborhoods.

"It's a total waste of money and serves no good purpose," he said. "We should not sacirifice education for social advantages."

He said both education and discipline have suffered.

Supt. Foster denied this and said tests indicated children were learning at the same rate a year after busing as they were before it began.

Secrets Of Famous Artists—5

Value Affects Mood Of Picture

By the Guiding Faculty of The Famous Artists School
Westport, Conn.

Previously we spoke about the basic elements that make up a good picture. Among these are the interesting subject matter chosen, the ability to draw and the composition of the drawing. These elements can be strengthened in your approach to your painting or sketch by understanding one of the tenets of good composition — value. This is the lightness or darkness of the picture and it plays a leading role in an artist's creation.

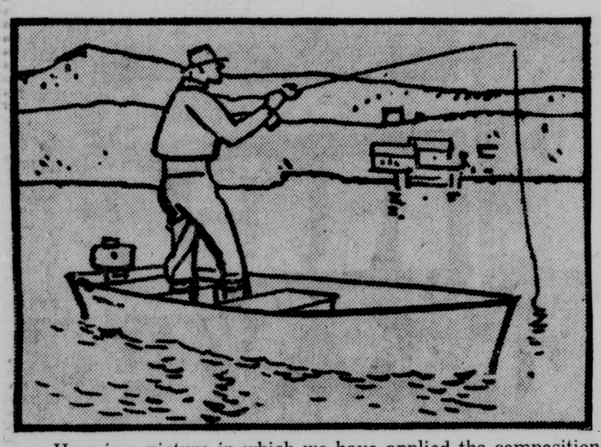
Many pictures have a mood. And a major factor in creating this mood is the overall value we give the picture—the "key," as it is frequently called. For example, a picture of a gay picnic or a children's party should probably be painted light in value, or in fairly "high key." But if we wished to paint a scene with a feeling of sadness and despair, we could accentuate this mood by making the picture dark in value or in a "low key." In a violent scene or a picture of a storm we might logically select a wide range of contrasting values ranging from pure white to solid black.

To enjoy a better understanding of the effects of color tone and value that great artists achieved, visit your local museum or the art section of your library. See how artists of the different ages treated this important segment. For instance, you might note that during the Renaissance the painters as a general rule worked in a moderate key avoiding sharp highlights and sudden contrasts of color. Later, in the work of the Impressionist painters, such as Vincent Van Gogh, the use of pure color and concentration on complementary, or opposite, colors gave such paintings strong, sharp contrasts. Today in pop art the artist puts great stress on the clashing, contrasting values color can provide.

Next week: The three dimensions of color.

(C) The Famous Artists School
Westport, Conn.

Color, or tone, creates mood. Here, in this three-part demonstration watercolor painting, the artist has created three moods, left to right: (1) a bright, sunny day, (2) a brisk, cloudy scene around the lighthouse and (3) a stormy mood. The "high key" color treatment at left uses pure, bright colors. The colors intensify and darken as the weather does to present the viewer some "low key" values. Try a simple sketch (for instance, the middle section of this example — the lightouse), and see how different in mood you can make the same composition. If colors are not handy, you can create the same value effects in simple black-and-white pencil and paper.



Here is a picture in which we have applied the composition principles we have learned so far. The elements are well arranged in depth in the picture area and the movement of line is equally satisfactory. Now we are ready to add the consideration of value.

This diagram illustrates a typical problem. Because everything is in a medium tone (value) or in tones that are closely to the left. The tones confuse the picture rather than show us what is important in it.

By using different tones we can easily make things contrast with one another. However, now everything seems equally important. The boat and mountain stand out just as sharply as the fisherman. The values are not helping to create a definite center of interest.

In-between values of gray can control the contrast between tones. Now the strongest contrast is where it should be—between the fisherman and his background. The other elements still stand out clearly but are less important in the picture.

Compositional Review—Using Line To Full Advantage

1. Almost every main line in this picture works against good composition. The lines of the road, fence, and hill carry our eye sharply to the left border. Even the tree leans out of the picture. The man's arm runs into the top line of the hill.

2. See how much easier it is to focus on both the man and girl when the strong lines of the road and fence are turned around to lead to her. The tree helps to block movement out of the right border but it still leans out of the picture. The man's arm and the line of the hill are less confusing.

3. This is still better. The girl has been moved to the left, so that she is no longer partly concealed by the tree. Dropping the hill line makes both man and girl stand out more clearly. The tree trunk and branches turn our eye movement back into the picture and help frame the two figures.

Drivers Must Acquire New Licenses If They Move

Nebraskans must get new drivers licenses if they move within the state, an attorney general's opinion said Thursday.

Assistant Atty. Gen. James J. Duggan said a licensee moving to a new county must obtain a replacement motor vehicle operator's license from the county treasurer of the new county and must pay a fee.

A fee need not be charged when a licensee moves within his own county, the opinion said.

A licensee who fails to acquire the replacement license immediately upon moving to his new residence may be prosecuted and penalized under Nebraska law.

The opinion responded to questions from Platte County Attorney Robert M. Snell of Columbus in regard to LB305, passed by the 1969 Legislature to amend licensing regulations.

Chicago Psychiatrist To Address Drug Confab

A University of Chicago psychiatrist, Daniel X. Freedman, M.D., will headline the Governor's Conference on Drug Abuse scheduled Monday and Tuesday at the Nebraska Center for Continuing Education.

Dr. Freedman is a Louis Block Professor of Biological Sciences and professor and chairman of the department of psychiatry at the University of Chicago. He has published more than 80 articles, written one book, and has two more books in preparation. Dr. Freedman's topic at the closing banquet will be "Confronting the Drug Problem."

Designed to initiate a partnership between youth and adults to solve the drug problem in Nebraska, the conference opens with registration at 8 a.m. Monday. Governor Norbert T. Tiemann will welcome participants and present them with the conference challenges at 9 a.m.

Other Speakers

Monday's speakers include Dr. Edward B. Roche, assistant professor of pharmacy and pharmaceutical chemistry at the University of Nebraska. He will speak on "Drugs and Narcotics — What Are They?"

DANIEL FREEDMAN
Banquet Speaker

Following Dr. Roche is Emmet M. Kenney, M.D., chief of the adolescent unit of Nebraska Psychiatric Institute, Omaha. Dr. Kenney will discuss "A Psychiatrist Looks at the Nebraska Drug Problem."

A reaction panel headed by Dr. Kenney will discuss his speech. The "other panel members are two university students, Douglas Hord Jr. and Steve J. Slaikeu, and a Lincoln East High student, John Kelly.

After lunch Monday, two Nebraska newsmen, John Hanlon of KFOR Radio in Lincoln and Lee Terry of KETV Television in Omaha, will discuss "What is Being Done in Nebraska." The afternoon will also include a "talk back" session where participants will be able to question the day's speakers.

Monday evening, resource centers, including films, educational materials, discussion groups, and other special programs in the field of drugs and narcotics, will be provided for participants to visit at will.

Tuesday Schedule

Tuesday morning will be devoted to small workshop groups. The group aims to develop recommendations to give direction to future efforts needed to solve the drug and narcotics problem in Nebraska.

The afternoon session will also be devoted to workshops. These are designed to further develop previous recommendations with special regard to education (kindergarten through college), legal professions, health professions, youth, and citizens groups.

About 150 Nebraskans representing organizations and agencies across the state, are registered for the conference arranged by the governor's office and the University of Nebraska Extension Division.

Taxation Group Schedules Meet For Next Month

Kearney (AP) — The Committee for Action on Rural and Urban Taxation (CART), one of several taxpayer organizations to spring up across Nebraska, has scheduled an open meeting here March 4.

Jack Cary of Kaarney, head of the five-county organization which has its eyes on statewide organization, said there will be a panel discussion involving four state senators—Wayne Ziebarth of Wilcox, Rudolph Kokes of Ord, Leslie Robinson of Kearney and Herb Duis of Gothenburg.

He said he also was inviting A. J. Truettle of Omaha, author of a limited spending proposal, to present his views.

Chamber Official Charges Schools Geared For College

. . . ALTHOUGH MOST STUDENTS DON'T GO

By LUCILLE HOWARD
Star Staff Writer

Curriculum in the Lincoln schools is "geared for college bound students" when only 20-40% go on to college, Phil James, chairman of the Chamber of Commerce education committee, charged Thursday.

Colleges and universities have "sold the public" on the prestige of that form of higher education and "dictate" the required courses in the public schools, James contended at a Forum Club meeting of Lincoln principals and administrators.

However, school board president Mrs. Catherine Angle pointed out that the schools are frequently criticized by parents for urging their children to take vocationally oriented programs.

Mrs. Angle moderated a panel composed of City Councilwoman Mrs. Helen Boosalis, chief probation officer Robert Keller and James discussing community needs related to the Lincoln Public Schools.

Mrs. Boosalis reported that "the one criticism of the schools heard the most often, whether valid or not, is that high school graduates are not trained with some basic skills to handle available jobs."

The schools, student employment supervisor Ed Schwartzkopf declared, "need more cooperation from the homes to recognize that there is value in vocational education and forms of higher education other than college or university."

Conditioning Children

Parents are conditioning their children to go to college whether the youths want to or not, it was pointed out.

Mrs. Angle noted that the schools, however, have been going in the direction of listening to the community" and is "reaching out to open channels to persons who have not been well represented nor very well served before."

Mrs. Boosalis called for increasing cooperation between public agencies as the competition for the tax dollars grows. She cited "excellent cooperation" between the city and schools in use of recreational facilities and urged elimination of the duplication in public and school libraries.

'Not Informed'

Seminars to inform educators about the police department, courts and probation system were proposed by Keller, who said that the majority of teachers are "not informed about the various facets of law enforcement."

He contended that "every educator needs to become a social worker as well."

HAND Office Is Eyed As Food Stamp Center

The Home and Neighborhood Development (HAND) office at 1100 No. 27th is being given "serious consideration" as a possible site for a food stamp distribution center, according to Donald Williamson, business manager of the County Welfare Department.

Williamson said Thursday there has been no decision on where the outreach centers will be located, adding that citizen interest would be a key factor in the decision on the locations.

He said questionnaires are being distributed to those receiving food stamps to seek opinions on possible locations.

"And there has been a lot of interest expressed for designating the HAND office as a site,' 'Williamson said.

The department plans to establish food stamps centers throughout the city.

Williamson said the department hopes to finalize plans for on the outreach program sometime during March.

He said the department is awaiting the results of the survey and information from the State Public Welfare Department as to when payments will be made to those receiving categorical assistance, such as old age assistance, and assistance to the blind.

The HAND Council recently passed a resolution calling for the HAND office to be designated as an outreach center. The 18th and Q St. fire station has also been proposed as the center for the area.

Scholarships Awarded For Nurse Training

Two scholarships for a one-year practical nurses training program in the Lincoln Technical College have been awarded by the Lincoln Foundation.

Mrs. Julie A. Vannoy of 335 Kinsley, who is employed in a physician's office, and Mrs. Donna L. Stamm of Elmwood, a nurses aide at Bryan Memorial Hospital, are recipients of the $1,000 awards.

The Lincoln Foundation has given some 18 scholarships for practical and registered nurses training since the program was started six years ago, according to Executive Secretary Fred Wells.

Prisoner's Plea Dismissed; Objected To Police Lineups

U.S. District Judge Robert Van Pelt dismissed Thursday a cease and desist petition filed by a prisoner in the Lancaster County jail who objected to being required to participate in lineups.

Vincent R. Lowrie, who filed the petition against Inspector Eugene Henninger, director of the Lincoln police services division, claimed prisoners are told they will be thrown in the "hole" if they refuse to serve in lineups.

Lowrie also objected to an alleged limitation of one pack of cigarettes per day per prisoner.

"The court concludes that the facts alleged by Lowrie, even if established, are not sufficient to establish a claim under the Federal Civil Rights Act," Van Pelt wrote in his dismissal.

Except in unusual circumstances, Van Pelt wrote, courts usually leave policy-making to the administrators of jails and prisons.

QUINTS' MOM SITS UP

Mrs. Margaret Kienast, 27, of Liberty Corner, N.J., sits up in her bed in Columbia Presbyterian Medical Center in New York City Thursday. Tuesday she gave birth to quintuplets. Four were named Amy, Sarah, William Gordon and Abigale; the last-born boy has not ben named yet. Dr. Stanley James said he was "guardedly optimistic" about the babies' survival chances.

Zink To Be Sentenced In Draft Card Burning

Larry Kent Zink, who pleaded guilty Dec. 2 to charges of burning his draft card, is scheduled to appear in U.S. District Court for sentencing at 10 a.m. Friday.

At the same time Nebraskans for Peace will stage an anti-draft rally outside the Federal Building, according to Mike Richardson, a coordinator for the group.

Zink, 23, originally from Danbury, admitted he burned his draft card on Feb. 13, 1969, before approximately 200 people on the University of Nebraska campus.

5-Year Sentence

He could receive a sentence of up to five years in prison and-or a $10,000 fine, according to U.S. Dist. Atty. Duane Nelson.

Richardson said Zink apparently is the first man in Lincoln to be tried for the offense and that one reason for the rally would be to honor Zink for his action "against this system of involuntary servitude."

"Larry doesn't believe in killing, yet the draft would force him to do something against his belief," Richardson said.

'Sacrifice'

"Because of his strong belief, he'll have to make a sacrifice of maybe five years of his life," he added. "A lot of people are against the draft but very few have the guts to go to prison because of their beliefs."

Richardson said the rally will include several speakers, most of them clergymen, and a list of what he called "political prisoners," men serving prison terms for refusing the draft, will be read.

Also available, he said, will be "we won't go" petitions signed by young men who pledge to refuse induction into U.S. armed services until the Vietnam war ends.

Just Wasn't Briton's Day

York, England (AP) — Stephen Thornton, 22, was treated at a hospital for facial injuries after his car and a truck collided.

The police cruiser taking him home struck another car and Thornton went back to the hospital with a broken leg.

Better Lincoln Committee Favors City Housing Meet

A citywide housing conference was favored at a meeting of the Better Lincoln Committee's (BLC) housing council Thursday.

Tom Carroll, executive director of the BLC, suggested the idea of the housing conference, which would bring together all groups in Lincoln that deal with housing in some manner.

Purpose of the conference, housing council members agreed, would be to come up with a plan for improving and increasing Lincoln housing.

How the conference would be structured was not decided and the BLC must still act on the idea.

Housing council member George Hancock, a real estate appraiser, suggested that the 70s should be a decade of action.

"We've been talking about what's needed for many years. What we need now is a signing of a mortgage."

Carroll told housing council members that the Home and Neighborhood Development (HAND) group is moving in the direction of an issue-oriented agency.

Sue Scott, HAND project manager, said that the group has been organized around four panels. These are a garbage committee, day-care center committee, park and recreation committee and a senior citizens committee.

Carswell Once Wrote Club Charter Excluding Blacks, Ex-Partner Says

©The New York Times

Washington — A former law partner of Judge G. Harrold Carswell has disclosed that Carswell personally prepared the charter in 1953 for a university booster club that excluded nonwhites from membership.

Douglass B. Shivers, a member of Carswell's former Tallahassee, Fla., law firm, said in a telephone interview Wednesday night that Carswell drafted the document that created "Seminole Boosters," Inc., a club formed to raise money for football scholarships at Florida State University.

Carswell listed as the sole qualification of membership that "members shall be any white person interested in the purposes and objectives for which this corporation is created."

Nomination Opposed

President Nixon's nomination of Carswell, now a U.S. Court of Appeals judge, has been opposed by a number of senators and civil rights spokesmen who contend that his record contains several incidents that indicate bias against Negroes.

Shivers said that the details of his law firm's preparation of the booster club's charter 17 years ago are now hazy in the minds of everyone involved. But he added that he talked to Carswell earlier this week and that "he does remember he drafted it."

Shivers expressed confidence that the exclusion of nonwhites did not reflect personal bias toward them by Carswell. He said that he had never known Carswell to talk in a prejudiced or biased manner about Negroes, or to deal unfairly with anyone.

Robert L. Bannerman, a Tallahassee public relations man and lobbyist who was the first president of "Seminole Boosters," said in an interview that he asked Carswell, then a private lawyer, late in 1952 to incorporate the club.

No Mention Made

No mention was made of any racial exclusion, Bannerman said. He gave Carswell a charter of a booster club of another Southern university to use as a pattern, Bannerman said.

Bannerman and the booster club's current president, William I. Dubey, both of Tallahassee, say that the club has never had a conscious segregationist policy, although they say they don't know if any Negroes have ever been members.

Carswell has answered questions about his nomination through the Justice Department. The Justice Department's information office responded to a query about the nominee's views Thursday by saying that "the department has no comment at this time."

Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., and George S. McGovern, D-S.D., formally announced their opposition to the Carswell nomination Thursday.

21 Trainees Are To Become Volunteer Probation Officers

Twenty - one new volunteer probation counselors who completed three evenings of training will be sworn in Friday as volunteer probation officers by Judge Thomas J. McManus of the Municipal Court.

"We are extremely grateful for the services of these counselors,'' said Judge McManus, "and are certain they will do an excellent job." According to Judge McManus, plans call for another training session to begin March 17, 1970.

Lloyd Watts parole administrator for the state, will address the counselors after the swearing in ceremony.

The training session was conducted by Richard Moore and Mike Warshofsky of the Psychological Clinic of the University of Nebraska, along with Municipal Court judges and the probation department.

Volunteer counselors who participated in the February training session:

Reformatory Inmate Flees

A 17-year-old inmate of the Nebraska Men's Reformatory escaped from a work detail Thursday on the State Penal Complex's west farm.

Penitentiary officials identified the escapee as Timothy S. DeGarmo of Lincoln, a transfer prisoner from the Kearney State Boys Training School.

DeGarmo was described as a white male, 6-1, 166 pounds, with blue eyes and red hair and a scar on the outer left hand and another scar on the outer right wrist.

He was reported to be wearing blue jeans, a blue shirt and possibly a gray hooded sweatshirt.

It seems only yesterday that we were saying goodbye to the holiday season, keeping our fingers crossed for the Cornhuskers and the Sun Bowl game, and wondering what 1970 had in store. And now we are peering at the March calendar.

March has quite an array of social activities including, of course weddings, but February is saying farewell in a festive fashion, also — There's the Lancaster County Medical Auxiliary dinner dance at the Lincoln Country Club tomorrow evening — and the Revelers, as you also already know, are to have "An Evening By the Fireside" at Hillcrest Country Club on Saturday evening. The members won't be sitting by the fireside, however — It's a dinner dance.

We're applauding the "git up and git" displayed by a certain bridge club. There is nothing new or different about having luncheon and playing bridge at someone's home, the members thought, and decided to break the monotony. What did they do? They boarded a plane for Wichita, Kan. — played bridge on the way, had luncheon and more bridge in Wichita — then winged their way home.

* * *

That March calendar we mentioned a moment ago includes a party next Thursday evening for a March bride-elect. The honoree is Kappa Kappa Gamma's Miss Susan Deitemeyer of Beatrice whose marriage to Robert Thacker is planned for Friday, March 20.

The Thursday hostesses, all Kappa sisters of the soon-to-be bride are four senior classmates Miss Katie Guild, Miss Carrie Douglas, Miss Ann Kohlmeyer, Miss Ann Brayton, and Mrs. Kip Deitemeyer at whose home the party will be.

The guests have been invited for 7 o'clock, and Miss Deitemeyer will be presented with a kitchen shower.

On the following Saturday, March 7, Miss Deitemeyer will again be an honoree — this time in Beatrice where Mrs. Houghton Elias, Mrs. John Porter, Mrs. Leonard Whittaker, Mrs. Harold Lenhart and Mrs. C. T. Frerichs will be brunch hostesses at the Beatrice Country Club. The bride-elect will be presented with a miscellaneous shower.

IN suburban areas

Someone once observed, in a rather perceptive — though grammatically questionable — statement, that "The hurrieder I go, the behinder I get." If we were about to choose a motto that would apply to Lincoln's suburban populace, the above example would be a primary candidate for selection. It seems that the activity continues ad infinitum in suburbia, seldom offering residents the opportunity to take a breather; and on this particular morning, the quantity of news concerning recent and future goings-on is exceeded only by its variety.

A weekend away from home is on tap for Patrician Heights residents Mr. and Mrs. Norm Weideman and children, Kami and Brian. The Weideman family will leave Lincoln today for Burke, S.D., where they will enjoy a visit with Mrs. Weideman's parents, Mr .and Mrs. J. L. Wolf.

The calendar of activities for the week just ending included performing some hostess duties for Southwood resident Mrs. Larry A. Witt. On Wednesday, Mrs. Witt entertained the members of the Game Commission Wives Bridge Club at her home. The ladies enjoyed a dessert supper and, of course, an evening of cards.

Saturday, Feb. 21, was a special day for Miss Kathleen Carpenter, daughter of Park Manor residents Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Carpenter. On that particular day, Kathleen became a 14-year-old, and she observed the occasion at a luncheon which took place in her honor at her home.

Guests at the festivities included a number of Kathleen's school friends — Sandy Brumbaugh, Christine Wesley, Wanda Adkinson, Liz Shearer, Theresa Ennis and Ellen Crofton.

Valentine's Day took on special meaning this year for Mr. and Mrs. Gaylen Marshall as a result of the fact that their first grandson, Master Todd Scott Marshall, made his world debut on that particular date. Todd, who weighed in at a very masculine eight pounds, nine and one-half ounces, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Marshall's son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Marshall of Minneapolis, Minn.

The young man has two very enthusiastic admirers at home — his sisters, Carey, 6, and Rebecca, who is 4. Completing his family circle are his maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Parrington who make their home in Edina, Minn.

Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Howell will be host and hostess at their home tomorrow evening when they entertain the members of their bridge club who will be participating in a progressive dinner.

Club members will arrive at the Howell home for the main course, after having enjoyed the salad at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Willard Pedersen. Dessert will be served at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Lewis, after which the entire group will be guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Carroll Decker for an evening of bridge.

Other couples on hand for the festivities will include Mr. and Mrs. Sanford Taylor, Mr. and Mrs. William Bender, Mr. and Mrs. Lyle Russell and Mr. and Mrs. Terry Mitchell.

Rolling out the red carpet to welcome out-of-town visitors this weekend will be Mr. and Mrs. William Johnson. Arriving today for a short stay at the Johnson home will be Mrs. Johnson's brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Wainwright of Council Bluffs, Iowa.

February Wedding

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas David McKee of Wayne, Pa., announce the marriage of their daughter, Katherine Edee, to David John McKee, son of Mr. and Mrs. David McKee of North Platte.

The ceremony was solemnized on Sunday, Feb. 15, in the First Congregational Church in McCook, with the Rev. John Craig reading the lines of the service in the presence of only members of the immediate families.

The bride, the granddaughter of Mrs. Roy E. Rice, formerly of Lincoln, and C. Austin Edee, also formerly of Lincoln, attended Endicott Junior College in Beverly, Mass., and the University of Nebraska. Mr. McKee is a former student at the University of Nebraska and now is attending the Community College at North Platte.

Mr. McKee and his bride are residing at 1101 E. 5th St., in North Platte.

The Clothes-Buying Public Is Counting Its Pennies

BY ISADORE BARMASH
(c) New York Times Service

New York — The pinch of general inflation and continually rising prices of clothing — as well as the mini-midi-maxi skirt-length confusion — have brought the Seventh Avenue garment industry to one of its most depressed states in years.

Long subject to feast-or-famine cycles because of the buying whims of the average American woman, many companies housed in the canyons of the heart of the nation's fashion industry are now in dire straits. Severely declining sales in recent months are leading to layoffs of employes and to a number of potential liquidations of some of the country's best-known fashion names.

Harvey Berin, a leading couturiere-manufacturer who has been in business here since 1922 except for one month during the depression of the 1930's, said today that he would close out his concern in 60 days. Two hundred and fifty workers are employed, he said, and about 40 per cent of them have been relocated to other companies.

Describing current industry conditions as "very bad," Berin said, however, that he had had one of his best years in 1969 but that the lack of qualified craftsmen in the industry had created an "intolerable" condition for the making of quality merchandise.

"It takes so long now to make a good garment because we don't have the people," he said, "that our business becomes simply uneconomic."

Other leading "better-price" makers were also reported to be considering liquidation.

The sharp bite of inflation of ever-bigger price tags on clothing, rising about 10 per cent a year, are affecting not only the women's but also the men's clothing industry.

Sales at retail of men's clothing have slowed since the turn of the year, mainly, store guyers believe, because of higher prices of clothing and of other goods.

Apparel prices last month in the country's consumer price index showed a decline of 1.1 per cent from December, mainly because of January clearance sales, but had a rise of 4.8 per cent from January 1969. But in the year-to-year comparison, food rose 7.1 per cent, and housing rose 6.8 per cent.

But, if higher prices are what is making the average American a more reluctant shopper, garment producers are more prone to lay their problems on general economic conditions. They said that higher taxes and increased interest rates were forcing consumers to curb their purchases of such necessities as apparel.

Mort Schrader, president of the Abe Schrader corporation, said that confusion on the new skirt-lengths was less a reason for the garment industry's troubles than economic conditions.

American women have found a particular problem in deciding what skirt lengths to select since the advent of the "maxi" and "midi" lengths in recent months after many of them decided to succumb to the risks and allures of the "miniskirt."

And, not to be forgotten, is that extreme of extremes — the "micro-mini."

Dimensionally, the "maxi" is virtually floor-length; the "midi" is below or at mid-calf; the "mini" is from two inches to six inches above the knee, and the "micro-mini" is at least eight inches above the knee.

Ironically, however, sources in the industry said today that the longer skirt will probably serve to continue the higher price trend in women's apparel, while, conversely, the "miniskirts" introduced in the past two years did not have the reverse effect of reducing prices.

Asked for an explanation of this rather paradoxical situation, an official at Bergdorf Goodman said that "the price of the garment is not just a function of the raw material but of the design, workmanship and labor, too."

Then he added, "the skirt-length confusion is certainly an adverse element in the short-term picture of our business, but over the long pull, or by fall, women will adjust to it.

Square Dances Are Scheduled

A busy weekend is in store for Lincoln Council of Round and Square Dance Clubs member groups. Meeting Friday evening for an 8:30 o'clock dance which will take place at the University Fire Barn, 2600 No. 48th St., will be the Chix and Chasers square dance club.

An 8:30 o'clock dance is also scheduled for the Swing'Em In Gingham square dance club, the members of which will meet at the City Recreation Center No. 1, 1225 F St.

The weekend of activity will continue Saturday evening when the Circle Eight square dance club will meet for an 8:30 o'clock dance at the Antelope Park Pavilion. A round dance workshop scheduled to begin at 8 o'clock, will precede the regular dance.

The members of the Hi-Flyers square dance club will meet Saturday at the I.O.O.F. Building, 1111 No. 56th St., for an evening of dancing. The festivities will begin at 8 o'clock.

An 8:30 o'clock dance is on Saturday evening's agenda for the members of the Promenaders square dance club. They will meet at the Belmont Community Center, 12th and Judson Sts.

Abby: no insult

DEAR ABBY: Three months ago I scraped enough money together to buy my mother-in-law an electric knife for her birthday. She seemed real pleased with it when I gave it to her.

Yesterday was MY birthday, and guess what she gave me? She gave back the knife I had given to her, saying she didn't have enough money to buy me anything real nice. What do you think of that?

INSULTED

DEAR INSULTED: I think she probably wanted only to give you something as "nice" as what you had given her, and this was her way of reciprocating. If I were you I wouldn't be "insulted." An "insult" is a malicious act. In my opinion, there was no "insult" intended here.

DEAR ABBEY: You are right. A woman who thinks she can change a homosexual by marrying him is in for a big disappointment.

There is only one combination which can accomplish that near miracle — the homosexual himself with the help of an expert psychiatrist. I know this is so because I struggled with homosexuality for years before I was "cured." I am now married to a fine woman who knew about my problem, and I am living a full, normal, healthy life.

I am not saying that everyone can do what I did. It takes time, patience, and money. But for me, it was well worth it.

FATHER OF TWO

DEAR FATHER: I am pleased to have your testimony (and there were others) because according to my mail, there are very few "cures." I, too, believe it is possible, but only if the person himself desires it. And no amount of pressure from friends, family, or society will help if the person himself doesn't sincerely want to change.

DEAR ABBY: I am still seething as a result of our annual family gathering over the holidays.

My son was home from college with a beard and his hair was a little long, but not shoulder length. He is neat and clean and is a good student, works part time, and we are proud of him.

We were greeted at my sister's door by her two teen-aged, mini-skirted daughters. All during the day, remarks were being made about my "hippie" son, and the conversation kept going back to the "long-haired irresponsible youth."

I don't think it is any more reasonable to link bearded students with hippies than it would be to consider all mini-skirted girls as street walkers or prostitutes, and this is what I said. Was I out of line?

P.A.

DEAR P.A.: No. And I hope you said it clearly enough so that those who needed to hear it did.

Meeting

Mrs. Mary Rosengren was hostess at her home Wednesday evening for the February meeting of the Fairview Extension Club. Serving as assistant hostesses were Mrs. Ed Studnicka and Miss Ann Henrickson.

BIDDING QUIZ

Partner bids One Notrump, next player passes, neither side vulnerable. What would you bid now with each of the following five hands?

1. ♠K7632 ♥AQJ104 ♦8 ♣J5
2. ♠84 ♥KJ2 ♦Q976 ♣K943
3. ♠AQ5 ♥J963 ♦KQ2 ♣A94
4. ♠9 ♥Q854 ♦J763 ♣K952
5. ♠K87542 ♥7 ♦Q9653 ♣10

1. Three spades. There is no question that this is a game-going hand opposite a 16 to 18 point notrump, and since a response of two spades or two hearts to an opening notrump bid is generally treated as weak and non-forcing, it becomes mandatory to jump the bidding to show interest in game.

Despite the disparity in the strength of the suits, it is far better to respond three spades than three hearts. If partner's next bid is three notrump, you then bid four hearts. To respond three hearts would lead to a very awkward position if partner's rebid were three notrump.

2. Two notrump. This is the normal response with 8 or 9 points and a notrump type of hand. Partner automatically passes with 16 points, goes on to three notrump with 18 points, and exercises his best judgment with 17 points.

3. Four notrump. This has nothing to do with Blackwood. It is simply an invitation to partner to go on to slam with maximum values for his notrump bid. Just as in the previous case, the opening bidder passes with 16 points, accepts the invitation to go on with 18 points and uses his best judgment with 17 points.

The four notrump response indicates 15 or 16 points and thus allows for the possibility that the combined hands contain the 33 points which ordinarily produce a slam.

4. Pass. Game is more or less out of the question and the only real problem is to find the best part-score contract. Granting that the hand might easily play better at a part score in one of our suits, there is no sensible way of finding a better spot than one notrump. Despite the singleton spade, partner is a big favorite to make at least one notrump with our 6 high-card points.

5. Four spades. High-card point count is not a reliable guide in measuring the value of distributional hands. It is much better to try to estimate the trick-taking power of such hands, relying on past experience and plain common sense.

Here, despite a shortage of high-card points, you should assume that, opposite a normal notrump opening, you are extremely unlikely to lose more than three tricks. You should therefore bid four spades without a qualm.

Shortage Of Rail Boxcars To Be Topic At Convention

By GLENN KREUSCHER
Farm Editor

The shortage of railroad boxcars will be a prime topic here June 14-17 when the 11-state Midwest Association of Railroad and Utilities Commissioners (MARUC) meet for the group's 1970 convention.

At a news conference announcing Lincoln as the convention site, MARUC President Ronald L. Anderson of St. Paul, Minnesota, said, "No single state can accomplish much. This means the states must get together and go to Congress for additional legislation."

Anderson explained the boxcar problem is a Midwest problem. Eastern states, he said, get possession of boxcars and then keep them for long periods of time by paying a small per diem charge.

Cars Hijacked

"Some eastern railroads only have locomotives and cabooses. They literally hijack railroad cars from other roads and keep them for years," said Anderson.

He said proposed legislation that has included a proposal for a per diem charge of as much as $100 would have a problem getting through Congress. The East is in favor of more liberal per-day car charges for possession of boxcars, he said.

Railroad commissioners present from Wisconsin, Missouri, and South Dakota spoke of railroad car needs "far above what we know we will be able to get."

Aggravate Situation

The prospect of the U.S. Department of Agriculture calling for three years of Commodity Credit Corporation stored grain will only aggravate a situation so bad that last year's crop can't be moved, and the CCC requires government grain be moved by rail, explained a South Dakota commission member.

Nebraska Railway Commissioner Fred N. Peterson told the group, "We must encourage on-the-farm storage or provide some incentive to encourage farm storage to effect orderly marketing."

The railroad commissioners present said the failure of the railroads to furnish needed rolling stock will encourage "longer and wider trucks that are going to come if we don't get railroad boxcars."

Local Symphony Foundation Tabs New President

During the annual board of directors meeting, the Lincoln Symphony Foundation elected A. James Ebel president for the coming year.

Additional officers chosen include Corwin Moore, first vice president; R. L. White, second vice president and James Nissen, secretary-treasurer.

Re-elected to the board of directors for three-year terms were Arnott Folsom, White and Nissen.

Hunkins Files For Unicam

Lyle B. Hunkins, Gage County superintendent of schools, filed Thursday as a candidate for the Legislature from the 30th District.

Reared on a Seward County farm, Hunkins, 66, has been in school administration most of his life.

He was junior high school principal at Falls City from 1927 to 1947, and then at Columbus until 1961.

Hunkins is a graduate of the University of Nebraska, and later obtained his master's degree in school administration from the university. He has been Gage County superintendent since 1964 and is a past president of the State Association of County Superintendents.

In filing, Hunkins said he is interested in the recodiciation of the school laws and the school tax problems.

Sen. Fred W. Carstens of Beatrice has not publicly indicated whether he will seek re-election to the 30th District seat.

1st Contribution To Batchelder's Drive Reported

The first contribution to the gubernatorial campaign of State Sen. Clifton Batchelder was reported to the secretary of state's office Thursday.

Theodore Baldwin, Kearney, reported the spending of $250.68 for the services of a pilot and airplane rental.

Bachelder announced for the Republican nomination Monday with a series of airport prop-stop news conferences across the state.

The Omaha lawmaker will oppose Gov. Norbert T. Tiemann.

Danze To Head J-J Day Dinner

Robert Danze of Omaha has been named general chairman for the 1970 Jefferson-Jackson Day dinner to be held in Omaha's Civic Auditorium May 1.

State Democratic Chairman Hess Dyas, who made the announcement, said National Committeeman Tom Kelley will serve as honorary chairman.

The guest speaker for the annual party fund raising dinner has not been announced but Dyas said it will be a person "of national reputation." The program and address will be carried live by Nebraska Educational Television.

English Teachers Attend Seminar On Composition

About 20 English teachers from secondary schools in eastern Nebraska attended a seminar here Thursday on creative writing and composition.

The seminar was sponsored by Educational Consulting Associates, a Denver-based firm.

Teachers from Lincoln, Omaha, Gretna, Papillion, Blair and Hickman-Norris attended.

The seminar as presented by Miles C. Olson, who received his doctorate in English education at the University of Nebraska.

Olson said the purpose of the seminars is to improve effectiveness in the teaching of English.

Marsh To Announce Political Plans Today

By The Associated Press

Secretary of State Frank Marsh has called a news conference for Friday morning to announce whether he will be a candidate for lieutenant governor this year.

He had indicated earlier he might try for the $7,500-per-year lieutenant governorship if assured of private employment to supplement that salary. Starting next year the secretary of state's salary will be $16,000 per year.

Should Marsh decide to try for the new office, he would be giving up a post he has held for 18 years, and one his father held for 17 years.

Two persons already have filed for the Republican nomination to the post which Lt. Gov. John E. Everroad is vacating at the end of this year. They are State Sen. Henry F. Pedersen Jr. of Omaha and Stuart F. Hansen of Norfolk.

Omaha trucking executive Ron Romans, head of the National Young Republicans Federation, has announced his candidacy but has not actually filed.

On the Democratic ticket, Bellevue attorney Ronald Reagan has filed for lieutenant governor as a teammate of gubernatorial bidder J. J. Exon of Lincoln.

There was speculation Thursday that James Sandstedt, state aeronautics director under former Gov. Frank B. Morrison, might make a run for the Democratic lieutenant governor nomination.

Senate Panel Okays New Health, Education Bill

©The New York Times

Washington — The Senate Appropriations Committee approved Thursday a new health and education appropriation bill containing a Republican spending limitation that may avert another presidential veto.

The $19.4 billion measure — a substitute for the bill vetoed as inflationary by the President last month — provides $579 million more than proposed in a compromise offered by the administration.

But the bill also contains an unusual provision, sponsored by Sen. Norris Cotton, R-N.H., specifying that only 98% of the appropriated funds can be spent by the executive branch.

The effect of the Cotton limitation, accepted by a 15-7 committee vote, is to reduce the difference between the administration and Congress to $232 million.

With such a relatively small difference, the expectation in Senate Republican circles was that President Nixon would accept the bill, thus ending a major confrontation between the administration and the Democratic-controlled Congress. While there was no direct word from the White House, Cotton reportedly assured the Appropriations Committee that he was "pretty sure" the President would sign the bill so long as it contained his spending restriction.

The test now shaping up, when the bill is called on the Senate floor in the next few days, is whether the Senate will retain Cotton's spending limitation. The outcome depends on a complex of political factors — how strenuous Democratic liberals are in pressing their issue of domestic priorities, whether the Southern Democrats will stand with the Republicans and whether Sen. Hugh Scott, the Republican leader, decides to lead a civil rights fight.

The Senate Democratic leadership, which senses that it has latched on to a good political issue by advocating more money for education and health care, will move to eliminate the Cotton amendment and thus restore $347 million to the bill, largely for education.

"I don't think we should compromise on the people's needs," said Sen. Mike Mansfield, the Democratic leader, in explaining his opposition to Cotton's restriction.

Body Of Baby Found; Law Officials Probing

Lancaster County Sheriff's officers and Lincoln police are searching for a person who left the body of a newborn baby along railroad tracks about nine miles east of Lincoln last week, Sheriff Merle Karnopp said Thursday.

Karnopp said Missouri Pacific railroad workers found the body wrapped in newspapers and a gunny sack in weeds under a railroad bridge near Walton.

The sheriff said the body was discovered last Friday afternoon, Feb. 20, but the information wasn't released to the public at that time because of a request by the county attorney.

The death is classified a homicide presently, Karnopp said, because the examining doctor determined that the baby had breathed.

The baby weighed four pounds, measured 18 and three-quarters inches and was judged by the doctor to have been born after eight months of pregnancy, Karnopp said.

The sack containing the body had apparently been tossed from the railroad bridge approximately 20 hours before it was found, he said.

3 Named To State Nursing Home Board

Members of the newly-created State Examining Board of Nursing Home Administrators were announced Thursday by State Health Director Arnold Reeve.

They are the Rev. Henry Foege of Lincoln, regional director of the Good Samaritan Society; Mrs. Margaret Freshman of Omaha, administrator of the Redman Nursing Home, and Bernard Correll of Fairbury, administrator of the Heritage Home.

The board, created by the 1969 Legislature, will examine and license nursing home administrators.

Administrators must be licensed after June 30, but conditional licensing is authorized for administrators with full-time experience for 12 months up to June 30.

Dr. Reeve said the new licensing law is to "assure that nursing home administrators are capable of rendering excellent supervision of the residents in skilled nursing homes and personal care homes throughout Nebraska."

The State Health Department is charged with the administration of the licensing program.

Youth Charged In Robbery Of Newspaperboy

An 18-year-old Lincoln youth was charged in Lancaster County Court Thursday with robbery in connection with a Wednesday evening holdup of a newspaper carrier boy.

Douglas W. Brooks, of 6511 Ballard, requested a preliminary hearing on the charge which was set April 1. Judge Ralph Slocum set bond at $1,500.

Brooks was specifically charged with robbing Gregory C. Saylor. According to police, the carrier boy was robbed of betwen $40 and $50.

WIDE WORLD OF ENTERTAINMENT

POSTCARD by Stan Delaplane

Spring has come to the long, green grape valleys of California. Heady stuff, if you could bottle it. In freezing New York pull the cork — pop! Instant foaming golden spring!

"Last year should be a superior year for California wine," said the man at the winery. California wine has become a snobbish business. We have little hobby wineries — your host jumped on those grapes with his own tootsies.

Except the serving. Ah, there's where we separate the tasters from the winos. Fortunately we have imported a French organization to see to that: La Confrerie des Chevaliers du Tastevins—The Knights of Wine-tasting.

I am a Knight myself. "A verray parfit gentil Knight," was the way Chaucer put it.

It is our job to say noble things about wine. Our work to see the waiter keeps up the sentiment, keeps down the sediment.

When the waiter drives in the corkscrew and wrenches at it, we cry: "For the love of heaven, man! Don't bruise it!"

☆ ☆ ☆

It's fine country up here where they grow the stuff. Green as a new dollar bill. The tiny grapes growing. Swelling with sugar and juice. The mysterious chemistry that makes poets rhyme and strong men weep.

It also goes well with women and song. (Not bad with pasta either. Spaghetti would be lost without it.)

Goes well with candlelight and roses. Chicks in search of permanent housekeeping should pop a bottle for the object of her affections. Send out for a platter of Papa Luigi's. Light the tapers. After that, it's child's play.

☆ ☆ ☆

We come to the green spring valleys to sharpen our wits. Rest the quiet inner man — who's been taking a fearful thumping lately.

The thing about 1969 being a superior year is so much wind in the grape vines. Napa and Sonoma valleys wine is the same, year after year. The same seasons, the same soil, the same making, takes care of that.

However, we Knights do not let it go at that.

"Was that a good year, waiter?"

We judge the stuff for color, We roll it on the tongue.

When I was chasing two-alarm fires — (before I became a Knight)—we ate in sawdust North Beach restaurants where wine came with the meal. A free bottle. Dark red. You could feel it all the way down.

The tableclothes were red-and-white checked. The spaghetti was wired with enough garlic to blow a safe. The wine had no year. They were refillable bottles. Refilled from a barrel in the back room.

The service as sturdy. The proprietor sloshed a big salad with olive oil and wine vinegar and ground pepper. He slammed the bowl of spaghetti in the center. Put on a loaf of sliced French bread and a big bowl of grated Parmesan cheese.

Then he slid each of you a bottle of red wine. That kind of wine did not bruise.

☆ ☆ ☆

From this we graduated to four-alarm fires and the better murders and dinners with expensive lawyers.

So to Knighthood and restaurants where the waiter wraps the bottle in a napkin before he gently draws the cork.

Same wine from the same valley. Only the names have been changed—to confuse the innocent.

$60,000 Received By NU For Woods Fellowships

The University of Nebraska Foundation announced Friday that it has received a $60,000 grant from The Woods Charitable Fund, Inc., of Lincoln, for the continuation and expansion of the Frank H. Woods Faculty Fellowships in arts and humanities.

The grant will be supplemented by the University Foundation to fund a three-year program, allowing six faculty fellowships each year.

In addition to one-semester leaves with pay for study and research, the expanded program will also allow some assistance for travel.

It will also include faculty members in Teachers College and in the department of economics of the College of Business Administration, in addition to those in the College of Arts and Sciences.

Thomas C. Woods Jr., president of the Woods Fund, said that approximately 60 faculty members in the College of Arts and Sciences have been named as Woods Fellows since the program began in 1955.

According to Dr. C. Peter Magrath, dean of faculties, the Woods Fellowships have been of great assistance in encouraging staff members to remain at the university. "All but four of the recipients continue to serve the university. Moreover, the Woods Fellowships have helped bring to fruition much creative work in the arts and humanities."

This present academic year, four faculty members are Woods Fellows: Thomas P. Coleman, assistant professor or art; Ned S. Hedges, assistant professor of English; James L. Roberts, associate professor of English; and Dennis L. Schneider, assistant professor of music.

Iba's Last Trip

Everyone connected with basketball has heard of "The Iba Treatment," and most everyone who has played his Oklahoma State team at least a couple of times has been a victim of "The Iba Treatment."

In a brief the Iba Treatment involves falling behind to a Henry Iba-coached team by a point or two and never seeing the basketball again except when it comes out the bottom of the Oklahoma State cords for your in-bounds pass.

The Iba Treatment goes by several names, the language of those aliases generally depending on how the Iba Treatment has just affected the person uttering the alias.

To the fan who thinks he isn't getting his money's worth unless he sees the basket a minute variety of basketball as supplied by the run-and-gun clubs, the Henry Iba brand of basketball stinks.

To the coach, who likes the coaching technique of rolling the basketball out on the floor and letting his sharpshooters pick it up and fire it from all angles and all distances, it's embarrassing when he has to sit on the bench opposite Mr. Iba and watch the ball being passed around a bit.

But whether you like the Iba brand of basketball or not, and I happen to be one who does, you've got to admire it and even those coaches who get bit by it do that.

Left Behind In One Area

Earlier this season, one rival Big Eight coach was asked if it were possible that Mr. Iba might be being left behind in today's modern world of fast-running, high-scoring basketball.

"The only place he's being left behind is in the area of recruiting," the coach replied. "He doesn't like the recruiting pace and he doesn't recruit much.

"But he's not being left behind when it comes to coaching. He still knows more about basketball than anyone else in the game."

Iba-coached teams have 766 games in his 41 years of coaching, a career that ends next weekend.

In the early years of that long career before high school stars had to be kissed, patted on the back and promised everything from cars to other luxuries, Iba's personnel was on a par with the opponents. But in recent years, Iba wins have come against teams that have been far superior in personnel.

Since Oklahoma State joined the Big Eight, Iba's teams in most years haven't had even one performer who could have made any other Big Eight team.

One problem Iba hasn't had is the one that faces many coaches of taking five high school super stars and trying to mold them into a smooth working team.

Ibas Type Of Team

When several big name stars bypassed the last Olympic basketball stars, there was great wailing in some circles about the United States sending a second-rate team to represent it in Mexico City.

There were doom spreaders who were saying the U.S., which had never lost an Olympic basketball game, was about to see its domination of the sport in international competition ended.

When you watch the patience displayed by an Iba team even when it's trailing by eight or ten points, you get the impression that if they were about to have a head-on collision with a semi truck, they'd pump the brakes slowly rather than hitting them hard and swerving to avoid the collision.

If they saw a brick falling from a 20-story building toward them, they'd walk rather than run to get out of the way.

Iba will be making his last coaching appearance in Lincoln Monday night when Oklahoma State faces Nebraska at the NU Coliseum. That's a sad thought.

Only One Record Likely In Danger In State Swim

. . . HIGH SCHOOL SWIMMERS SPLASH INTO ACTION TODAY AT EAST HIGH POOL

By VIRGIL PARKER
Prep Sports Writer

Based on best performances from the regular season, only one new individual record will be set during the state high school swimming championships this weekend at the East High pool.

A wholesale assault on the record book occured in 1968 when eight new marks were established in the ten events. Last year, two of those were improved upon by existing record holders. Lincoln High's Spencer Luedke lowered his 400-yard freestyle time to 4:03 3 and Dick Rensch of the defending champion Creighton Prep squad improved his 100-yard butterfly clocking to an even 54 seconds.

Alan McAlister of Omaha Westside has a :58.5 to his credit this season in the 100-yard backstroke, three-tenths of a second below the '68 record of Westside's Scott Skultety.

Except for the two relay records, none of the others have been eclipsed during the current campaign. Generally coaches find it difficult to spare four top performers for a single relay event at the state meet level, thus making regular season and state marks in those events difficult to compare.

Since points are awarded at the state meet for 12 places in each event, the depth of the Westside team of coach Cal Bentz appears to place the Warriors in a favorable position to annex Prep's crown.

Westside swimmers appear on the 10-deep chart of regular season "bests" 20 times. Prep follows with 12 names on the list, while Lincoln High with 11, Omaha Benson and Fremont with 10 each, Lincoln East and Omaha Burke with nine and Lincoln Southeast with seven appear to have enough top talent to threaten for the team title.

Lincoln High's Tom Heuke is the only individual to lead the state's swimmers in two events, owning the best timing in both the 100 and 200-yard freestyle events.

Other Capital City leaders include Southeast's Greg Shaw in the butterfly and the Links' Clark Pace in the breaststroke event.

Two defending state champions will be on hand. Omaha Benson's Steve Robbins, who captured the diving crown with ease, returns along with teammate Steve Voss, who won the backstroke title a year ago.

Though Robbins will be favored again, McAlister and Ralston's Scott Ruser have equal or better regular season timings this year in Voss' specialty.

Twelve individuals who earned points in fourteen events return. The pair who tallied in two events last time were Heuke, third in the 100-yard freestyle and fourth in the 200-yard individual medley, and teammate Mark Bryan, who was second in the butterfly and fourth in the 50-yard freestyle.

Other returning Lincoln scorers from 1969 are Shaw, fourth in the butterfly, and Gary Scott of Southeast, who was third in the backstroke.

The state meet action opens Friday at 9 a.m. with the preliminary diving trials. The swimming prelims start at 1 p.m., with the diving semifinals at 7 p.m. The finals for both swimming and diving begin at 1:30 Saturday afternoon.

NWU TOPS DANA, 110-93

. . . Winning Season Assured For Plainsmen

By TOM HENDERSON
Star Sports Writer

Nebraska Wesleyan assured itself of a winning basketball season Thursday night by defeating Dana, 110-93. But it took a second half rally to do it.

An inability to hit from the free throw line plagued the Plainsmen throughout the game, converting an 11-2 NWU lead to a 56-54 halftime deficit, then keeping coach Irv Peterson's club behind much of the second half.

Wesleyan, which now has a 13-11 record for the season with one game remaining, hit on only 18 of 34 attempts from the line, made possible by 25 Dana fouls.

Ironically, however, it was a spurt of seven straight free throws which finally allowed the Plainsmen to take the lead for keeps with 9:48 left in the game.

Rick Boals, who scored 18 of his 28 points in the second half to keep the Plainsmen within striking range, broke the free throw slump, hitting both ends of a one-and-one to tie the game, 77-all. Then John McLaughlin dumped in a pair made it 79-77 in favor of Wesleyan and big Bob Beecham padded the margin with three straight from the line before his fourth try missed.

The spree, although short, placed the Plainsmen in command, 82-78, a lead they soon widened with a deliberate style of play which paid off in points and Dana mistakes.

Dana, behind 11-2 after only a minute and a half of play, battled back to within three, 13-10, and managed to stay close enough for an eight-point surge by Jeff Beatty to put the Vikings ahead for the first time, 38-34.

The teams battled evenly the rest of the first half with the score being tied seven times.

John Brown broke a 40-40 deadlock with a tipin with 4:27 remaining in the first half, lifting the Wesleyan star over the 1,000-point mark for his career. Brown. who finished with a game-high of 34 points, is only a junior.

Beatty paced Dana with 29 points, while two other Vikings finished with 20 or more points.

The loss left the Vikings with a 4-17 record for the season.

Had Wesleyan lost to Dana, a victory in its game at Hastings tonight would have been a must if the Plainsmen were to finish with their first season over the .500 level since 1965-66.

The win over the Vikings, however, assures the winning season even if Wesleyan should lose to the Broncos tonight in the season finale.

Greene To Defend AAU 60-Dash Title

New York (AP) — Poland's Henryk Szordykowski is the defender but Villanova's Marty Liquori is the favorite to win in what could be the first sub four-minute mile in two years at the annual Amateur Athletic Union indoor championships tonight.

After an absence of four years, the indoor championships return to New York, bringing 18 of 22 defending titlists to Madison Square Garden. Szordykowski upset Liquori by 1.3 seconds last year in Philadelphia, winning in 4:05.

However, in their only meeting this season, Liquori, the Wildcat junior from Cedar Grove, N.J., whipped Szordykowski at 1,500 meters last Friday night, stretching his unbeaten string at the Garden to eight.

Jim Crawford of Harding College, Ark., John Lawson of the Pacific Coast Club, holder of the season's best mile mark of 4:00.6, and teammate John Mason are others in the mile field. Meet director Ollan Cassell says "the meet record of 3:59.0 set by Jim Beatty in 1963 could go."

Other defenders of men's titles include Charlie Greene, 60-dash; Willie Davenport, 60-hurdles; Martin McGrady, 600-run; Herb Germann, 1,000 yards; Dave Romansky, mile walk; John Rambo, high jump; Norm Tate, long jump and triple jump; George Woods, shot put, and Al Hall, weight throw.

Seven of nine women's defenders returning are Barbara Ferrell, 60 and 220 yards; Mamie Rallins, 60 hurdles; Jarvis Scott, 440; Madeline Manning, 880; Abby Hoffman, mile; and Maren Seidler, shot put.

Six Olympic champions on hand include Davenport, Miss Manning, Lee Evans, Bob Seagren, Bob Beamon and Randy Matson.

John Carlos will bid for the 60-yard dash honors while Davenport will attempt to stop the 2-4 Olympic finishers Erv Hall and Leon Coleman in the hurdles.

The show-stopper could be the 600-yard confrontation between McGrady, aiming for his third straight AAU title, and, Lee Evans, the 440-meter Olympic champ.

Beard Check Set To Keep Out Women

Stockholm, Sweden (AP) — Organizers of the Valsaloppet cross-country ski race ordered a close check of competitors' beards before the annual event this weekend.

Shame-facedly, they admitted Thursday that a lady skier had sneaked into the strictly men's field a year ago and completed the race ahead of many of her male rivals.

The woman was Valtarud Nothaft, 30, of West Germany. She not only fooled officials but all but one of the 8,000 male competitors.

Berhard Brokowsky said he noted that the fraulein skied funny and he saw the beard bob up and down. He jerked at the beard and it fell off.

"I swore to keep her secret," he said. However, the cat was let out of the bag and officials vowed it wouldn't happen again.

Sports Show Offers Plenty, From Boats, Cars To Girls

BY RANDY EICKHOFF
Star Sports Writer

If you're a sportsman and interested in all types of sports, then the International Sports and Vacation Show at Lincoln's Pershing Auditorium is the place to visit.

Everything that a sports nut can use is on display from boats and cars to campers and motorcycles and in every price range.

Campers are booming to a new popularity among sportsmen so, consequently, several campers are on display that can fit the need of anyone.

They vary in price range and size from a small pop-up on a trailer priced at $995 to a multpurpose camper that is a home on wheels and costs around $20,000.

The pop-up is really coming into use since it travels on a small trailer approximately five feet square but unfolds to a family-size tent in a manner of minutes.

If boats interest you, you can inspect sailboats costing around $2,000 or twin-engined combination cruise and troll boat running close to $10,000.

Then there's cars.

Alex Allison of Lincoln, the operation manager for Sportsland Unlimited, is showing several new products that his company has developed over the past years.

Of special interest to the younger crowd is a new sports car made popular by the Man From U.N.C.L.E. television show, the CRV.

"The whole car is made entirely from plastic," Allison commented, "but it rests on a rigidized frame for safety.

"It won't go through water, but maybe a driver could get it airborne."

A new feature in snowmobiles has hit the market with an enclosed body that can come fully equipped with a heater for the less hardier souls who still want to enjoy snowmobiling during the winter.

Then if you're interested in trips, several outfitters have set up shop and will be more than happy to accommodate you.

Still not satisfied? Well, there are several kiddie rides for you kids and a real honest-to-goodness Indian teepee for them to enjoy, and several booths where you can try your luck at winning a prize.

Also to keep the kids entertained while you shop is a water show complete with clowns and Pan American gold medalist in synchronized swimming Papsy Georgian with her dog Rouxphis.

Miss Georgian has been with the show "a little over five years" and has been in almost every state in the union.

"This is my first time in Nebraska, however," she added.

So while the kids sit and watch the water show, you can stroll around and enjoy the exhibits. Better wear a good pair of walking shoes though, it's almost a four mile trip to cover the whole show.

GI Kegler Reverts To Form Of Past With 700 Series

Grand Island (AP) — The last time Joe Simon of Grand Island rolled a 700-series was in 1949 — until Wednesday night.

Bowling in regular league competition at the Liederkranz lanes Wednesday, the 66-year-old Simon put together games of 222, 214 and 264, for the first 700 series rolled in Grand Island during the current bowling season.

For Simon, a railroad dispatcher for the Union Pacific, it was a special accomplishment, since his lifetime record of twenty 700-series set in 1949 seemed destined to stand until his break-through 21 years later.

Simon's best score was a 758.

Kansas Solid Favorite In Big Eight Track Meet

By HAL BROWN
Star Sports Editor

Kansas City, Mo. — Some strange things have happened on the board track at the Municipal Auditorium here and if anyone's to catch Kansas today and Saturday in the 42nd annual Big Eight Indoor Track and Field Championships more strange things may have to happen.

The Jayhawks, who will be gunning for a fifth straight indoor title and their 16th in 21 years when action gets under way at 6 p.m., have the league's leading performer in four of the 14 events and solid depth in most of them.

But Nebraska coach Frank Sevigne, who has no event leaders going into the meet, isn't ready to concede the title to the Kansans.

"We're going to be shooting for it (the title)," Sevigne asserts. "We feel we've got a fine team and we think we'll be in the thick of the race."

The Huskers were the last Big Eight team to win the indoor title before KU began its winning streak.

Nebraska's strongest forte could be the low hurdles, an event where Kansas has no entry.

The Huskers have two of the league's top four times in the low stick event with freshman Randy Butts and Galen Hurst both owning 6.9 clockings to rank behind Colorado's Marcus Walker, who has run 6.7, and Kansas State's Luci Williams, who owns a 6.8.

Nebraska could also get second place points in the high jump from Dan Brooks, who could vie for first if something should happen to Ray McGill, Kansas State's seven-foot jumper.

Brooks has leaped 6-8, only one-half inch less than George Holland of Oklahoma State, the Big Eight's No. 2 man behind McGill.

Garth Case returns to defend his 600-yard run title, won as a freshman last year. Case's best time this year of 1:11.8 puts him only third on the pre-meet chart behind Kansas State's Dale Alexander with 1:10.0 and Oklahoma's Dennis Cotner with 1:11.6.

Cotner, however, may skip the 600 to run in the 440 and a Big Eight rule forbids runners from doubling in the 440 and 600.

Dan Morran, a Nebraska co-captain, returns in the 880 trying to regain that title he won two years ago, but failed to place last year.

Morran's 1:54.0 best this season puts him only fifth on the pre-meet listings with Kansas' Brian McElroy the leader with 1:50.2.

Carlberg's 4:11.2 ranks third and Brrang's 4:11.9 is sixth on the Big Eight chart this season with Oklahoma State's Peter Kaal leading with 4:07.1.

A dazzling field of speedsters is set to go in the 60-yard dash with eight sprinters having run 6.1 or better this indoor campaign.

Nebraska's Don Quarrie is among them, having run the 6.1 along with Colorado's Walker, Missouri's Mel Gray, and the Kansas trio of Mickey Mathews, Frank Johnson and Phil Reeves.

Oklahoma State's Earl Harris has sped 5.9 and Everett Marshall of Oklahoma has run 6.0.

The only final event on tonight's opening program is the long jump where Kansas' Reeves is the leading performer with a pre-meet best of 24-9 with Nebraska entries Eric Heeter ranking fourth at 23-10½ and Hopeton Gordon sixth at 23-4.

Wildcats Race To Win Over Colorado, 79-69

. . . VENABLE LEADS K-STATE CHARGE

Manhattan, Kan. (AP) — Kansas State clinched the Big Eight basketball championship and a berth in the NCAA Midwest regional tournament Thursday night, racing past Colorado 79-69 after Buffalo star Cliff Meely fouled out with five minutes to play.

The Wildcats stand 10-2 in the conference and boast a three-game lead over Kansas with only two games to play. Kansas State, 19-5, claimed its 12th league championship or co-championship in 23 years.

Jerry Venable sparked a late Wildcat surge which pulled K-State away to a comfortable margin after leading only 60-59 with 5:20 left.

Meely hit a short jumper to pull Colorado within one point, but committed his fifth foul with 5:08 remaining. Venable sank the free throw to shove Kansas State into a two-point lead, and David Hall and Venable hit two quick baskets to widen the margin to 65-59.

Colorado never got closer than four points from that point, and Venable drilled three baskets in the final minutes to pad the margin.

Colorado's last lead was 41-38 early in the second half.

Venable led Kansas State with 31 points, while Meely had 21 points and 19 rebounds before fouling out. Gordon Tope paced Colorado with 22.

Kansas State Coach Cotton Fitzsimmons said after the game that others may have doubted his Wildcats could win the Big Eight basketball championship, but his team never doubted it.

"The credit goes to the kids," Fitzsimmons said after being dunked in the shower by his players. "They stuck together all season.

"I know not very many people thought we could do it, but all our kids thought we could. We've worked real hard to attain this goal."

The Wildcats were sluggish in the first half, Fitzsimmons said.

"They like to play real tough in the second half, I guess, and show the people they can do it," he added.

Dorchester, Bradshaw Advance

By DICK MEZZY
Outstate Nebraska Bureau

Stromsburg — The Dorchester Longhorns and the Bradshaw Bulldogs gained the finals of the District D-5 high school basketball tournament here Friday night.

Dorchester's Bill Boller, a 6-0 senior, led the [illegible] scoring 28 points against M[illegible].

While the odds seemed in favor of McCool Junction before game time, rapid ball handling by the Dorchester team gained an early lead against McCool in the first quarter which was maintained throughout the game.

Some of the reasons cited for the "unscheduled" upset against the McCool Mustangs was what appeared to be a poor defense which, as one spectator put it, "a heck of a lot of open gaps."

Bradshaw's John Appuhn and teammate Milt McLain, both seniors, pushed the No. 3-rated Bulldogs to a victory by a margin of only four points.

Throughout the entire four quarters of the game both Benedict and Bradshaw scored at will.

Bradshaw gained a second quarter lead only to lose it to Benedict in the closing minutes of the third quarter.

The fourth quarter of play saw a lot of quick ball handling which the Bradshaw quintet converted to points and final victory.

Bradshaw and Dorchester will meet tonight to decide the D-5 championship.

Met Signs, But He's Not Happy

St. Petersburg, Fla. (AP) — A bitter Ron Swoboda, signed but unhappy, showed up in time for the New York Mets' workout Thursday, claiming he was not satisfied with the money in the new contract he has signed with the club.

Swoboda, the last Met whose signing was announced, said he actually had come to terms in a telephone conversation Saturday. Bob Scheffing, the general manager, said the announcement was held up until Swoboda reported.

Informed of Swoboda's bitterness, Scheffing said if he didn't like the contract he shouldn't have signed.

"I am not happy with the money," said Swoboda, the Mets' right fielder who reportedly signed for $40,000, an increase of $6,000. "I am ashamed to look my wife in the face. I feel I let my family down. I compromised myself too much. I've been sick for days."

Swoboda reportedly had been asking for $50,000 and the club had offered $38,000.

Preakness Nominees Released

Baltimore (AP) — Silent Screen, the 2-year-old champion of 1969, heads a list of 158 nominees for the 95th running of the Preakness Stakes at Pimlico race course on May 16.

The Preakness, with $150,000 in added money from the Maryland Jockey Club, is the richest of the Triple Crown races. Majestic Prince, last year's winner, earned $129,500 of the gross purse of $182,000.

Elberon Farm's Silent Screen, a son of Prince John, was bought at the Saratoga yearling sales for $39,000. Last year he topped all juveniles with winnings of $397,966 and he won the Bahamas in his 3-year-old debut.

High Echelon, who won $240,090 for Mrs. Ethel D. Jacobs last year, was nominated along with stablemate Personality — who appears to be a Triple Crown contender after making only one start in 1969.

Other stakes winners of 1969 on the list of nominees include Insubordination, Irish Castle, Evasive Action, Forum, Protanto, Ring For Nurse, Hagley, Jackal, Pass Right, Pontifex, Prize Silver, Rollicking, Spotted Line and Cuc By Right.

In addition to Personality nominees Naskra and George Lewis have performed well early this year. Naskra won the Everglades and George Lewis took the Hibiscus.

Another nominee is Burd Alane, a colt who cost $210,000 as a yearling.

Sunny Sal, who won seven of nine last year and was second high weightin among fillies in the Experimental Handicap, also was made eligible.

The last of four fillies to win the Preakness was Nellie Morse in 1924 and the most recent filly entry was Ciencia, who finished last in 1939.

All told, the winners of 53 majors stakes for 2-year-olds are among the nominees.

Brock Signs Cards Pact For 1970

St. Louis (AP) — Lou Brock is 30 years old, an artist at stealing bases and still a player who thinks hitting offers baseball's biggest challenge.

The St. Louis Cardinals right-fielder, whose signing for the 1970 season was announced Thursday by the club, says getting on base will therefore draw his top attention when he reports for training in Florida.

"You can't steal if you don't hit," he said. "The important thing is getting into good hitting habits. That's important to do in the spring."

Brock, leader in National League base thefts four straight seasons, was signed by the Cardinals for a $5,000 raise over his 1969 salary, reported to be $85,000.

His credentials during the Cardinals' disappointing 1969 season included a team-leading .298 in batting 12 home runs and 53 thefts in 67 tries.

Henderson, Sutton Advance To Finals

By VIRGIL PARKER
Prep Sports Writer

Geneva — The outcome ran true to form in the semifinal round of the District C-13 high school basketball tournament as Henderson and Sutton turned back Nelson and Hebron for the second time here Thursday night.

Henderson, an easy winner over Nelson in a Christmas holiday tournament, duplicated the feat with a 69-48 triumph while Sutton, which edged Hebron by six points during the regular season, ran away from the Bears in the second half to claim a 63-48 victory.

Henderson's all-state candidate Allan Regier only had his hands on the ball eight times during the contest with Nelson, but tallied on each occasion while leading the Huskies to victory.

Though Regier only scored 13 points, the fact that the Nelson defense doubled and tripled teamed him at all times, allowed teammates Homer Friesen and Don Hall to be open for easy shots throughout the contest.

The Huskies, who held but a slim two-point edge at the end of the first quarter extended the margin to nine at 31-22 at the intermission break.

In the second half Coach Larry Kovar's Henderson club canned 16 of 22 shots from the field for an unbelievable .727 average to pull steadily away.

Regier, a 6-5 high jumper and winner of the high hurdles at the state track meet last Spring, commanded the defensive backboard to limit Nelson's offensive success.

Henderson also displayed uncanny accuracy from the free throw line, dumping in 15 of its first 17 chances from the charity stripe.

Hebron jumped off to a quick five-point lead over Sutton at 10-5, but the Mustangs of Coach Mickey Stoehr tallied the next eight consecutive points as Doug Pope found the range from the outside.

Though Hebron's Larry Mathiesen retallied with a basket for the Bears, Pope and Keith Vejraska started another Sutton sprut which suddenly ran the count to 21-12 as the Mustangs connected on five of six shots from the field.

When Sutton's shooting cooled off late in the second quarter Hebron closed the gap to eight points at half time and to a slim five point difference, 36-31, midway through the third period.

The victorious Mustangs then mounted another drive and scored the next 11 points to run the count to 47-31 and put the contest out of reach.

The question for tonight's finals is whether or not previous preseason play will continue to be a deciding factor. Henderson popped Sutton twice during the regular campaign.

Kovar's quintet will be trying to make it three in a row while Sutton attempts to break the jinx and claim the district crown.

Musical Work Commissioned For Jets' Joe

New York (UPI) — The New York Philharmonic announced Thursday that it has commissioned a new musical work for Joe Namath.

The announcement was verified by none other than Andre Kostelanetz, conductor of the Philharmonis's Spring Promenade Concerts. He admitted to being an enthusiastic fan of the New York Yets and said the idea of a musical work for Joe Namath came to him during the January 1969 Superbowl game.

"At first I thought in terms of a ballet descriptive of football, then I settled on a specially written orchestral work with narrator," Kostelanetz said.

Namath agreed to be the narrator and Kostelanetz commissioned jazz composer Dick Hyman to compose the music and Dick Schaap, Namath's literary collaborator, to devise the words.

They as yet untitled work will be 12 minutes long and will employ full orchestra, the Moog Synthesizer, and Hyman at the piano keyboard. The premier is set for May 29 and 30 at Philharmonic Hall.

"I'm sure it will turn out all right, as long as my knees hold together," Namath commented.

Nine More Teams Added To Meet

Kansas City (AP) — Nine more teams were named Thursday night to the NCAA College Division regional basketball tournaments, leaving only four teams to be selected to fill the 32 berths for the eight regionals.

Selected were Central Missouri State, 18-5, and Southwest Missouri State, 15-10, co-champions of the Missouri Intercollegiate Athletic Association; Bellarmine, 15-8; Old Dominion, 20-6; Stetson, 19-5; Hartwick, N. Cage Hero 's Dad Dies Cheering Son

Grand Island — Defending Class C state champion Hastings St. Cecilia won its way into the finals of the District C-12 basketball tournament here Thursday night, but suffered a serious blow from an injury to one of its star players and the death of his father from a heart attack.

Richard Korth, father of the hero of the game, starting forward Mike, collapsed with five seconds remaining in the contest against Adams Central and the score tied at 52-all.

The contest was held up for 25 minutes as attempts were made to revive the elder Korth at courtside before he was removed to a hospital where he was pronounced dead upon arrival.

Favored St. Cecilia trailed throughout most of the game and was eight points behind going into the final quarter, but the Blue Hawks outscored Adams Central 17-4 in the early stages of the final frame to take the lead. Mike Korth tallied 13 of those 17 points to lead the surge.

But with a minute and a half remaining, and St. Cecilia clinging to a slim 52-49 advantage, Korth suffered a severe ankle injury that is yet to be fully diagnosed.

In a closing rush, with Korth out of the lineup, Adams Central scored three points to knot the count. With five seconds remaining, the Blue Hawks Bill Ashburn was fouled and it was at that time that Mr. Korth collapsed.

After the 25 minute delay, Ashburn connected on both ends of his one-and-one free throw opportunity to provide St. Cecilia with a 54-52 victory.

The tragic misfortune was another in a series that has plagued St. Cecilia. During the football season quarterback Jim Hagel was killed in a headon automobile crash.

Ford's Pen Worse Than His Putter

Miami (AP) — Jack McGowan and Dave Marr shot five-under-par 67s Thursday and shared the first round lead in the $150,000 Doral Open Golf Tournament while a slip of the pen sent Doug Ford's score soaring to 116.

Ford, a 22-year veteran of the pro tour, inadvertantly penciled in the figure "40" in the space for his ninth hole score on his scorecard, didn't notice the error and signed the card.

The 40 was his total on the front nine but he was charged with 40 strokes on the ninth hole.

McGowan and Marr held a two-stroke lead over a half dozen others headed by veteran Dan Sikes.

Tied with Sikes at 69 on the 7,028-yard par 72 blue course at the Doral Country Club were Charles Coody, Jim Colbert, Larry Hinson, Dave Stockton and England's Barnes.

British Open champion Tony Jacklin was in a group at 70 and Arnold Palmer was in another large bunch at 71.

The weather was cool with a mild wind and several of the top names had some difficulties with the demanding, lake-lined course.

Masters champion George Archer had a 74, U.S. Open titleholder Orville Moody took a 73 and defending champion Tom Shaw had a 72.

McGowan, whose only previous victory was in the 1964 Milton View Open, was one of the last in the field of 144 to finish. He had five birdies — three of them on par 5 — and no bogeys.

Marr, in a mild slump since he scored his last triumph in the 1965 PGA championship, three putted for two bogeys but counted seven birds, including the 18th where he holed an 80-foot chip shot.

Marr started on the back nine and birdied his first two holes chipping to within three feet on 10 and running in a 12-foot putt on 11. He bogied 13 but got the stroke back with the chip shot on 18.

He chipped to within three inches on the first hole and started a string of three consecutive birdies with a 35-foot putt on No. 6.

McGowan, who lost a playoff for the 1969 Texas Open title, chipped to within two feet of the first hole and canned a 40-footer on No. 2 for his second consecutive bird.

He chipped close for another bird on the eighth and two putted for a birdie four on 10. The 39-year-old veteran went five under with a curling 40-foot putt on the 15th.

2 Omahans Sworn In As Senators

By Associated Press

Two Omaha men officially became Nebraska state senators Thursday at a brief ceremony in the senators lounge at the State Capitol.

Sworn in were Donald E. Troudt, appointed to fill a vacancy created by the resignation of Sen. C. F. (Pat) Moulton, and George W. Althouse, who succeeds the late Sen. Edward R. Danner.

Gov. Norbert Tiemann announce his choices to fill the two legislative vacancies at his news conference last week.

"Thank you gentlemen, this officially makes you senators," Secretary of State Frank Marsh told the two after he administered the oath of office. "Here on out you're on your own."

Troudt, who described himself as a "progressive liberal," said he was very interested in the area of education, specifically vocational-technical schools.

He said he hoped an Omaha area voc-tech school would become a reality. Trade training is necessary, he said, to give all persons "an opportunity to become productive and independent."

The 59-year-old Yellow Pages advertising salesman for Northwestern Bell Telephone Co. already had filed for election to the 8th District seat prior to his appointment by Tiemann.

Althouse, 69, a Negro named to succeed a Negro, said he was vitally concerned about civil rights legislation.

"So far we have gained a lot and we're moving forward all the time to better goals," he said.

In announcing Althouse's appointment, Tiemann said the president of the Althouse School of Beauty Culture in Omaha did not plan to seek election and would serve only until next January, when a successor would be seated as a result of the November election.

Real Complaint

Nottingham, England (UPI) — Derek Dawson, 44, won a court award of 300 pounds ($720) for injuries received when he fell while at work. Dawson said the accident hampered his dart-throwing ability.

Basic Cancer Factor Detected

. . . WILD GROWTH STIMULATOR THOUGHT IDENTIFIED

©The New York Times

Washington — A substance has been found in cancer tissue that makes cells grow wildly, without discipline.

The discovery may explain the long-recognized fact that cancer cells can continue to multiply even under crowded conditions and thus are able to invade normal tissue and grow at the expense of the whole body.

It may also explain how cancers promote the growth of blood vessels and connective tissue to support their undisciplined expansion.

Substance Detected

Normal cells slow their rate of multiplication as the number of cells in a given volume of space becomes excessive. This effect has been called density dependent inhibition. Dr. Harry Rubin, professor of microbiology at the University of California at Berkeley, has detected a powerful growth-promoting substance that leaks from cells that have turned cancerous. It seems to repeal the growth inhibition in normal cells. It may also be the factor that makes cancer cells grow without discipline.

The existence of such a growth factor suggests a potential new approach to cancer treatment, he said during an interview Thursday.

The idea, still speculative at present, would be to starve cancers by use of an antidote to the growth factor. Deprived of the ability to make nearby normal tissues grow fast, the cancer would be unable to promote the blood vessels it needs for supplying nourishment and the connective tissues it needs for support.

Relation Close

Rubin calls the newly discovered substance OSF for overgrowth stimulating factor. The available evidence suggests it is probably a protein closely related to growth-promoting factors in normal cells.

The cancer cells appear to make excessive amounts and to let it escape by leakage. After it has left the leaky cancer cells it acts on the surfaces of neighboring cells. That is the hypothesis suggested by the experiments reported in the latest issue of Science, weekly journal of the American Association for the Advancement of Science.

The research is supported by the National Cancer Institute.

Rubin said he was led to the search for the factor by observing cells growing in laboratory dishes after they had been exposed to a virus called rous-sarcoma that is known to produce cancers in birds.

Chick embryo cells infected with virus turned cancerous, but nearby cells that had not been infected behaved in much the same way as the cancer cells. They multiplied rapidly and took on an abnormal rounded shape. This suggested that the cancer cells were releasing a substance that affected the other cells.

Chenot Receives Kiwanis Award

George Chenot, retired director of the People's City Mission has been awarded the Capital City Kiwanis Public and Business Affairs Committee's citizenship Award for 1970.

Prices Are To Rise Again During March

Washington (UPI) — The government, reporting another wholesale price increase, indicated Thursday further consumer price rises are in store next month, particularly in the cost of meats.

The Labor Department said wholesale prices increased 0.3% this month — a much smaller increase than January's 0.8%, but still reflecting a stubborn price inflation.

There is no absolute statistical connection, but increases in wholesale prices usually show up at the retail level about one month later.

Control Seen

Government economists said the latest economic indicators add to evidence that inflation is being brought under control, although consumer prices will continue to rise a while longer.

The sharpest increase in February was one per cent in the wholesale prices of farm products, which the Labor Department said was fueled by "substantial" increases in the price of cattle, hogs and fresh fruit.

These increases, however, were partly offset by declining wholesale prices of eggs, chickens, fresh and dried vegetables, processed foods and feeds.

Over-all, the farm product index for February was 8.2% higher than during February 1969.

The wholesale price index during February advanced to 116.3%, indicating it costs $116.30 this month to buy wholesale goods that cost $100 during the 1957-59 base period. This was an increase of 4.7% over February 1969.

Dip Is Sharp

The Commerce Department, meanwhile, said its index of "leading economic indicators" declined 1.8% in January — a far sharper dip than the 0.1% recorded in December.

This was the sharpest decline in this index since the recession year of 1957.

This index includes business statistics that normally point the way to future changes in the over-all economy. It is based on statistical analysis of the figures which were announced earlier in the month.

The index of coincidence indicators, which usually moves with the general economy, fell 0.9% last month after a 0.1% reduction in December.

Maddox Denies His Ax Handles Were Given Out

Canton, Ga. (AP) — Gov. Lester Maddox has denied a Negro congressman's claim that he passed out ax handles in a Capitol restaurant.

Rep. Charles Diggs, D-Mich., who confronted Maddox in the House restaurant in Washington Tuesday, is circulating a petition to bar the Georgia governor from the eating place. Diggs and Maddox got into a heated argument which Diggs said involved distribution of the handles.

But Maddox denied Wednesday that he distributed the handles. He said he had taken some of them to Washington because "they ask about these Pickrick drumsticks. They represent the chicken we used to make."

Israelis Hit At Missiles Near Cairo

Tel Aviv (AP) —Israeli jet fighters attacked missile bases north and west of Cairo Thursday in the two deepest penetrations into Egypt since the June 1967 war and battled Egyptian interceptors. Returning pilots reported shooting down three Egyptian MIG21s.

Israeli spokesmen said the planes hit a missile base 18 miles west of Cairo and later in the day struck a ground-to-air missile site at Duhmes, about 70 miles west of Port Said, which is the Mediterranean outlet of the Suez Canal.

A dispatch from Cairo reported the booming of anti-aircraft guns in the Egyptian capital. Black puffs of smoke dotted the sky. It said no planes were sighted but air raid sirens wailed in the suburb of Heliopolis.

A communique from Tel Aviv identified the target of the second attack as a ground-to-air missile base of the SA2 type in the Duhmes sector.

"In the air battle which developed between Israel air force planes and the Egyptian planes, which tried to engage them after the attack on the missile base at Duhmes," the communique said, "Israel air force planes downed three Egyptian MIG21 aircraft."

Union Insurance Co. Reports 1969 Assets Of $10 Million

Although 1969 was a record year from the standpoint of automobile claim and expense payments in proportion to sales, Union Insurance Co. officials reported assets of $10,000,501, and policyholders' surplus of $5,037,964 at the end of the year, it was announced Thursday at the company's 84th annual meeting.

According to T. J. Farrell, chairman of the board of directors, underwriting results on auto insurance have been disappointing for the past several years.

Farrell said that the effect was especially significant because 55% of the company's total 1969 sales of $7,156,000 represents auto insurance.

President D. H. Pettett reported that 1969 showed a 15% increase in the number of reported automobile accidents and a 25% increase in the average cost per claim.

Pettit added that last year was more favorable for property insurance because of the absence of tornadoes and hailstorms in the Midwest.

Officers re-elected at the meeting include Farrell, chairman of the board; Pettett, president; Maurice R. Gerleman, executive vice president and secretary; John V. Head, senior vice president and general counsel; Robert G. Walters, vice president and agency director; Loren D. Graul, vice president — casualty underwriting; Elton D. Severns, vice president — property underwriting; Robert E. DuPont, vice president — claims; E. E. Francis, vice president; William H. Malone, assistant vice president — claims; C. A. Gerleman, treasurer; Dale E. Graul, assistant treasurer; L. Dean Fletcher, manager, data processing.

12-Year-Old Boy Tells Legislators Of His Addiction

New York (AP) — A youth testified at a state legislative committee hearing on drug addiction Thursday about his heroin addiction and how he supported it. The witness sat on his doctor's lap while he testified.

"I used to see all my friends do it, so I didn't want to be left out," Ralph DeJesus, 12, said as he explained to the committee how he went to heroin after sniffing glue and cleaning fluid and smoking marijuana.

The 4-foot-tall, 60-pound addict said he sold drugs to adults and other youngsters at a Bronx elementary school, and also supported his habit by stealing purses, breaking into stores and helping older friends mug people.

Ralph sat silent on the lap of Dr. Judianne Densen-Gerber, clinical director of the Odyssey House addict treatment center, while she told of her efforts to get more funds to expand the center's program for child addicts.

The tears flowed after Assemblyman Manuel Ramos, Bronx Democrat, was visibly moved when he asked Ralph when he had had his last shot of heroin and Ralph said it was eight days ago.

Prichard Heads Taxpayers Unit

Falls City (AP) — A Falls City man, W. J. Prichard, was elected chairman of the newly-formed Richardson County Taxpayers Association.

The group will incorporate with the intent to protest re-evaluations of farm real estate.

About 630 persons attended the Falls City meeting, at which Lloyd Stalder of Humboldt was elected vice chairman. Other officers are K. G. Sandrock of Falls City, treasurer, and Virgil Wiltse of Falls City, secretary.

Students Accept Integration, But Only In Classes

Columbia, Miss. (AP) — Columbia High School, fully desegregated eight weeks ago under federal court orders, has made the transition peacefully, although there is little mixing of the races outside the classroom.

School officials give the bulk of the credit for the smoothness to the 813 black and white pupils.

"It went much more smoothly than we ever anticipated," said Principal Bobby J. Oswalt. "Even from the first day, the kids, in 99% of the cases, have cooperated wholeheartedly."

Despite the integration in the classroom, however, there has been little mingling in the school's student activities. The traditional activity period, during which school clubs met, was abandoned this semester. It appears likely there will be no senior play this year and many pupils say they will skip the senior banquet if it is held.

Stock Mart Fails To Sustain Rally

New York (AP) — The stock market failed Thursday to sustain a strong rally based on fragile hopes that a small Philadelphia bank had lighted a fuse that would lower interest rates on a wide front.

The market had rockted to its biggest gain of this year in the final half-hour of trading Wednesday after the Lincoln National Bank announced it would cut its prime lending rate to 8% from a record 8½%.

But the wind was knocked out of the market's sails when major banks across the country said they did not feel this was the appropriate time to reduce interest rates.

The market slumped to a steep loss in early trading, then recouped the major portion of the setback.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials closed with a loss of 3.83 to 764.45 after having been down 8.97 in early trading. It had spurted 13.86 Wednesday.

The Associated Press 60-stock average dipped .1 to 271.5, with industrials off 2.4, rails up 1.7, and utilities off .2. The New York Stock Exchange index of some 1,200 common stocks fell 0.24 to 49.73. Standard & Poor's 500-stock index eased .45 to 88.90.

Of 1,580 issues traded on the Big Board, 746 declined, and 585 advanced. New 1969-70 lows topped new highs by 35 to 11.

Volume slackened to 11.54 million shares from 13.21 million on Wednesday.

There were 11 declines against 9 advances on the Big Board's most-active list. With blocks of 188,800 and 108,700 shares making up the bulk of its total volume of 390,300 shares, Great Western Financial, off 1¾ to 22¼, was the most-active.

Trades of 10,000 shares or more on the New York exchange fell to 69 from 80 on Wednesday.

The decline ranged through the steels, motors, aircrafts, chemicals, oils, airlines, building materials, and drugs.

Price changes among the more active Big Board issues included Jersey Standard, off 1⅜ to 54⅛; Telex, up 2⅜ to 13²⅝; Fairchild Camera, off 2⅞ to 88⅜; Xerox, off 2⅞ to 94⅝; Boeing, off 1 to 25; and Atlantic Richifeld, off ⅞ to 69.1.

American Stock Exchange prices fell with the index off .08 to 25.70. Among 1,047 issues traded, 481 declined and 348 advanced. Volume of 3.88 million shares compared with 4.64 million on Wednesday.

EVERYBODY'S MONEY:

Letters Indicate Confusion About Investment Tools

By Merryle S. Rukeyser

MERRYLE RUKEYSER
Available Facilities

As the world becomes more specialized, it is important for those planning for their financial future to be aware of tools available to them.

Reader mail indicates confusion as to how to use the facilities for money management. Thus, a professional men in Harrisburg, Pa., writes: "I have heard that one can buy and sell stocks through the bank they deal with — free of broker fees.

"Perhaps my informant was thinking of a trust fund. Could you explain whether the owner has any say as to what the bank does with the money until the time for payment is due?"

If brokers act as agents, they charge fixed commissions. Sometimes, the broker-dealer, acting as principal, sells a security which he owns at a flat rate. He hopes to realize a profit. A broker or dealer charges a fee only for special services, such as investment counsel, or for arranging business deals, including mergers and acquisitions.

When a bank acts for a customer, it passes on the broker's commission and usually adds something for handling. Sometimes, despite the cost, it is convenient to act through a bank. For example, in smaller communities those without brokerage connections can obviate the trouble of opening an account. Likewise, during the recent Wall Street retrenchment, with discrimination against small orders and against stocks under $5 a share, some found it convenient to engage a bank. Since a bank is a good wholesale customer, there is less inclination to show muscle toward banks.

Trust activity, segregated from commercial banking, is limited by law as to what are eligible investments. In recent decades, there has been liberalization of such standards. Earlier only prime bonds and first mortgages were eligible. Now the prudent man rule lets the unrestricted trustee buy common stocks.

For small investors, numerous banks operate mingled trusts. For individuals there are irrevocable trusts, revocable living trusts, and testamentary trusts for funds left to surviving heirs. Except for short time irrevocable trusts, there are usually no due dates, but they last until the maker of a living trust dies or until the terms of testamentary trusts have been fulfilled. Usually the trustee considers reasonable family wishes. In a revocable living trust, the trustee is disciplined by knowledge that the trust can be terminated at will.

Q. A Salinas, Calif., reader, with a revocable trust worth more than $300,000 is dissatisfied with the Eastern trustee, and is considering shifting to San Francisco.

A. — In larger centers, the banks will act for you. If your bank is not equipped, it can get lists for you of what is available through its own correspondent in a financial center.

jectively appraise the recent performance of the trustee in light of the sharp decline in security prices. Since there are costs in terminating a trust and opening another, he should be sure he is not jumping from the frying pan into the fire. The Trust Division of the American Bankers Association, 90 Park Ave., New York, N.Y. can give a list of San Francisco corporate trustees. He could retain an investment counsel firm, and use a bank for custodial service to hold the securities. The Investment Counsel Association, at 49 Park Avenue, New York, N.Y., will give a list of members. Another approach would be to acquire mutual funds and investment companies.

(Mr. Rukeyser will be pleased to receive inquiries from readers concerning their financial problems. Letters with stamped, self-addressed envelopes should be sent in care of The Lincoln Star. Questions of general interest will be answered in the column. Others, to the extent time permits, will be handled by mail.)

Here's How To Work It

One letter simply stands for another in this example, A is used for the three L's X for the two O's etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Here is a practical little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add three. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures gives you.
